Mikoyan Assures West of Continued Access to Berlin

Russia Not Trying to Oust Allies From City, He Tells Political, Business Leaders

BY WARREN ROGERS, JR.

Washington — (AP) — Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan was reported today to have assured the United States of continued free western access to Berlin.

He gave no detail that would permit judgment as to whether the access he offered would be really free as the west understands the word.

Such a pledge would go to the heart of the current east-west tension over Berlin's future. It would signal a major concession by the Kremlin to the west's objections to Soviet demands to make a "free city" of Berlin.

Mikoyan was understood to have told high level state department, business and congressional leaders last night:

1. Russia is determined to turn over administration of East Berlin to the puppet East German communist regime, regardless of U. S. - British - French denunciation of this plan.

2. Russia is not trying to throw the allies out of West Berlin, even though Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, in his Nov. 27 note, suggested withdrawal of all allied troops from the city.

3. Russia simply feels the time has come, 13 years after the end of World War II, to give Berlin a new status.

4. The United States, Britain and France, in replying last week to Khrushchev's note, were remiss in not coming up with some counter-proposal which might have provided the basis for negotiation.

5. The Soviet decision to hand East Berlin over to East Germany by next May in no way implies a peace-or-

34 Killed, 100 Hurt in Riot In Congo Area

Leopoldville, Belgian Congo — (AP) — Thirty-four people are reported killed and about 100 seriously injured so far in two days of rioting in Leopoldville, the Belgian Congo capital.

Shops have been set on fire, Catholic missions ransacked, and schools and police headquarters burned out.

Europeans have been stoned and shot at, and mission priests have been beaten by the rioting Africans.

Most of the dead were believed to be Africans shot by police or troops.

A state of siege has been proclaimed, and jeeps of troops armed with machine guns are patrolling the main avenue of the city's large African sector.

Barbed wire barricades are being set up. Firearms are being distributed to the European population.

Roadblocks have been set up around the Leopoldville area. Movement across the river from Brazzaville, in French Equatorial Africa, is stopped.

The riots started Sunday afternoon. Late last night the sound of automatic weapon fire was still heard.

Troop reinforcements patrolling in armored cars and barbed wire roadblocks brought at least partial order. But the situation remained highly explosive because native leaders apparently had lost control of the masses.

African troops with European officers were rushed from Thysville and took position around the African quarter.

Charges U. S. With Neglect Of Prisoners

Akron Man Says He and Others Held by Batista

Akron, Ohio — (AP) — An Akron man claimed today that he and other Americans held prisoner in Cuba by the supporters of fallen dictator Fulgencio Batista were virtually neglected by United States officials during the months they were imprisoned.

Jonathan J. Graham, Jr., 30, told his story at the home of his mother, where he arrived over the weekend after escaping from El Principe prison in Havana during rioting in the Cuban capital on New Year's day.

He was accompanied here by Dean Leon Gleaves, 23, of Portland, Ore., and Edward W. Keen, 20, of Pontiac, Mich., who escaped from the prison with him. They supported his story.

Deny Knowledge — Graham said U. S. embassy officials in Havana refused to help them despite "knowing they were American citizens held by the Batista supporters without explanation.

In Washington, the state department said it had no knowledge of Graham and the others except for news reports. It said the Havana embassy had been asked for information, but there had not been time to get an answer.

Rep. William Ayres (R-Ohio), said he would take the matter up with the state department in Washington if Graham and the others would

GOP Leaders Offer Compromise to Insurgent Group

Try to Head Off Challenge To Martin at GOP Helm

Washington — (AP) — Republican house leaders made an eleventh-hour compromise offer to young GOP insurgents today to share party leadership responsibilities in the chamber.

The offer, expected to be rejected, was proposed to head off a direct challenge to the reign of Rep. Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts, GOP floor leader for 20 years. The proposal had an initial

Byrnes Possibility If Deadlock Comes

Washington — (AP) — Rep. John W. Byrnes of Green Bay, Wis., was regarded today as a possible compromise candidate in the struggle between Reps. Charles Halleck of Indiana and Joseph Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts for the post of house Republican leader.

House Democrats, meanwhile, unanimously reelected all their incumbent officers at a caucus described as one of the most harmonious ever held.

Sam Rayburn of Texas was again chosen as speaker and John W. McCormack of Massachusetts as majority leader.

Martin met for an hour this morning with veteran house Republicans to map strategy and prepare the compromise. The proposal was virtually the same one suggested to the insurgents yesterday and turned down by them.

Under the proposed compromise a new post of assistant floor leader would be created. It also provides for election by the full 153 Republican house membership of the chairman of the Republican house policy committee. Hereafter Martin has held that post along with his leadership responsibilities.

The proposal will be offered for a vote of the Republican conference this afternoon when house Republicans will choose their leaders for the new 86th congress convening tomorrow.

Its defeat would open the way for the election of the 58-year-old Halleck to the leadership post.

Halleck formally announced his candidacy last night in opposition to Martin. His move followed a behind-the-scenes drive by a group which contends younger and more aggressive leadership is needed to combat the overwhelming Democratic majority in the new house.

A spokesman for Halleck said he was standing pat on his candidacy.

That left no doubt the compromise plan, as a peace-maker, was dead.

Inaugural Sidelights

Nelson Turns Up in Non-Matching Clothing, Won't Wear His Carnation

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Gov. Gaylord Nelson's casual habits of dress and disdain for fuss are well known around Madison, and so his family circle was not particularly surprised Monday morning to discover that he had come to his inaugural ceremonies with non-matching clothing.

A relative discovered that the new governor was wearing a brown belt, with a black suit.

He was prevailed upon to don a more suitable belt of a harmonious color, which was hurriedly sent over from a Capitol shop, but he resolutely refused to wear the carnation in his button-hole, which all other luminaries of the day were sporting.

Mrs. Nelson wore a beige wool suit dress, and apparently endured the long line of hand-shakers and well-wishers at the reception in the executive office without fatigue.

A delighted participant in the ceremonies and the reception was "Happy" Nelson, the 5-year-old son of the new governor, whose shrill "Hi Daddy" rang through the stately capitol rotunda during the most solemn part of the oath-taking ceremonial.

The Rt. Rev. Abbott S. M. Killeen of St. Norbert college found the public address system wiring interrupted during his invocation at the inaugural rite.

But the strong voice of the De Pere clergyman carried through the chamber nevertheless.

Partisan politics versus protocol probably was the case for former Gov. Vernon Thomson on the inaugural platform. It was the first time since 1935 that the ceremony represented a change in parties of Wisconsin's chief executive.

Thomson was one of the last on his feet during the applause following Gov. Gaylord Nelson's address, and the former GOP governor took a few hasty looks around before doing so.

Earlier in the ceremony, however, Thomson beamed broadly as Nelson waved to the crowd of about 4,000 persons before his address.

"Governor, good morning," was Nelson's greeting to Thomson as the latter arrived at the governor's offices ten minutes before the procession-al to the capitol rotunda was to begin.

"Gaylord, how are you?" Thomson smiled in return.

Atty. Gen. John Reynolds and Stewart Honeck, the Republican he replaced, also greeted each other on a first

Party Liberals Center Attack On Sen. Dirksen

Maine Senator Joins Meeting of Insurgent Group

Washington — (AP) — Insurgent senate Republicans voted today to center their party leadership fight against Sen. Everett M. Dirksen's bid to be floor leader.

After a meeting of 11 self-styled liberals, Sen. George D. Aiken of Vermont announced the group would concentrate its efforts on backing Sen. John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky against Dirksen and on electing Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California as party whip or assistant leader.

The group endorsed Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, for reelection as policy committee chairman. Sen. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts for reelection as chairman of the conference of all Republican senators and Sen. Milton R. Young of North Dakota for secretary of the conference.

Since Bridges has said he is willing to accept Kuchel as whip, there may be only one post in dispute, that of floor leader, when Republican senators meet at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow to elect officers.

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine joined the meeting today of the group rebelling against Dirksen's bid to be floor leader.

Dirksen of Illinois was whip in the last congress and aspires to advance to the leadership post formerly held by Sen. William F. Knowland of California who did not run for reelection to the senate.

Kuchel has had some support for whip from senators backing Dirksen for floor leader, but Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) said today he was withdrawing his support from Kuchel because of the Californian's association with the Aiken group.

With Mrs. Smith's arrival, the Aiken group mustered an attendance of 11. They need 18 votes to win since the senate has 34 Republican senators.

Fond du Lac Official Defies Board's Order For His Retirement

Fond du Lac — (AP) — J. G. Brunkhorst, the 83-year-old register of deeds for Fond du Lac county, Monday defied a county board order to retire and reported to his office to start another term.

Brunkhorst was first elected to the office in 1921 and has served continuously since then.

The involuntary retirement of an elected official, it is believed, would set a precedent in Wisconsin.

Cherter Castello, the chairman of the pension and retirement committee, recommended to the board that Brunkhorst be retired because he is incapable of fulfilling his oath and duties.

One of the longest years on record, the International Geophysical Year, ended officially Dec. 31. The IGY began eighteen months ago, with over 30,000 scientists and volunteers working together in man's greatest search for knowledge about the earth on which he lives.

Public Understanding Goal Of Party, Nelson Declares

Warns Democrats at Banquet in Madison They Must Explain to People State's Fiscal Problems

BY JAMES BARTELT
Post-Crescent News Service

Madison — Gov. Gaylord Nelson joined in the spirit of a jubilant Democratic banquet here Monday night but then warned party members that they now have the job of explaining Wisconsin's fiscal problems to the people.

Expanding on a favorite theme, Nelson said the objective of public understanding must be gained before legislation is possible. This, he said, is a job for the party which was victorious in the November election. Nelson offered financial demands in the fields of highways, state colleges, local school aids, and public welfare as examples.

"If we don't meet these responsibilities, we will fall farther behind than we are now. And I would rather get licked next time than shirk these responsibilities."

"I hope that you people here and the people throughout Wisconsin will give serious consideration to these problems which face all of us. They are more serious than at any time in this century," Nelson said.

Nelson spoke to nearly 700 inaugural-day Madison visitors in dining halls of two Madison hotels, his words going to one of them by a telephone connection. The $25-a-plate dinner was planned by the state party to erase the campaign deficit of last fall and provide funds for new projects.

Zero Weather

While party publicity last month predicted 900 dinners, party officials, blaming Monday's zero weather, said they were satisfied with the results.

"First of all, I want to thank you for taking us out of bankruptcy tonight," said David Rabinovitch, state party treasurer, at the start of his talk. Reporting on budget hear-

Democrats Plug For Bigger Space Program

Senate Leaders Don't Like Administration's New Defense Budget

Washington — Democrats plugged for accelerated missile and space programs today on the eve of the opening of a new congress heavily dominated by their party.

Top Democrats, including Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and his assistant, Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, expressed disappointment with the $40,000,000,000 defense program reportedly outlined by Eisenhower and his aides at a White House meeting with leaders of both parties yesterday.

Mansfield said the briefing was so sketchy that "the proper committees are going to have to go into these matters in much greater detail" before congress knows where the country stands in relation to Soviet accelerations.

Reds Seize Initiative

Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.), a member of the Senate armed services and Senate House atomic energy committees, said the Russian cosmic rocket success means the Soviets have seized the initiative again.

"This adds up to the need for the kind of effort which will give us something more than a catch-as-catch-can program — a program, instead, which will give us the continuing capacity to keep ahead," he said.

Sen. of States Dulles was reported to have expressed some concern about growing Soviet military strength and space progress at the White House conference.

Rayburn Comments

House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Texas) was asked if the administration plans to step up space spending.

"They didn't say so," he said. "They acted like they were moving as fast as they know how."

However, Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, a candidate for Senate Republican floor leader, said there will be a speed-up in space development, including plans to send a manned rocket to the moon and return. He said there will be "a rather substantial sum" for space programs but gave no detailed figures.

New Cuban President Names Premier, Calls For Free Elections

Manuel Urrutia Moves to Havana After Talking With Fidel Castro

Havana —(AP)— Provisional President Manuel Urrutia put his government into high gear today after taking control of the presidential palace and cancelling martial law in Havana.

Acting speedily after his arrival in the capital last night, Urrutia:

Named Jose Miro Cardona, president of the Havana Bar association to be premier of his government;

Announced free elections would be held within 18 months to two years;

Rescinded Martial Law

Summoned his new cabinet into a post-midnight meeting; Rescinded the martial law proclamation and curfew extension decreed earlier by the provisional government's military chief for Havana province.

Urrutia flew to Havana from Camaguey following a talk with Fidel Castro, leader of the uprising that ousted Dictator Fulgencio Batista and put Urrutia in power.

Castro continued his victory procession toward Havana with 3,000 of his guerrilla warriors and new supporters from Batista's military forces. He is expected in Havana tomorrow.

Urrutia said the rebel chief prefers to remain outside the cabinet to observe developments.

Urrutia also announced his government would not allow gambling, which under Batista had grown to a multi-million dollar business carried on in Havana largely by American interests.

Some Confusion

Some elements of confusion remained in the government setup that probably will be clarified when Castro arrives. The only framework of government in the first few days after Batista's fall was provided by radio announcements from the rebel leader in Santiago, at the other end of Cuba.

The brief period of martial law in Havana province had been decreed yesterday by Maj. Camilo Cienfuegos, Castro's army-navy chief for the province, during a dispute with a rival group of rebels over possession of the presidential palace.

The rival group, which calls itself the revolutionary directorate, is made up mostly of students. They had seized the palace right after Batista fled while numerous armed bands were roaming Havana.

Two Police Officers Shot Both Men Wounded, Assault Killed As He Flees Scene

Danville, Va. —(AP)—Two Danville police officers were wounded and their assailant shot to death in a blazing gun battle in the city's business district early today.

Capt. Norman H. Boswell, 49, a veteran of 24 years on the force, was hospitalized with a .38-caliber revolver slug near his lung. His condition was listed as serious.

Det. Sgt. Coley Boone, 44, was wounded in the left shoulder, but fired back at the man who shot at his police cruiser. Boone's bullets felled Clifton Bernell Terry, 26, of Danville.

Terry ran about 150 feet around a corner. Officers later found his body, a snub-nosed revolver still clutched in his right hand.

Frank Chaney, a special investigator, said the two officers while on routine patrol spotted a man with a duffle bag and recognized Terry.

Chaney said Terry pulled a revolver as Boswell approached. In the ensuing scuffle two bullets from Terry's pistol struck the cruiser and another hit Boone. Chaney said Terry pulled free from Boswell and fired on the captain.

Terry ran around a corner and Boone shot at the fleeing figure. Officers said Terry had a record of seven arrests.

Miss Torre, 34, mother of two infants, was given a last chance to make the choice yesterday when she appeared before Judge Sylvester J. Ryan in U.S. district court. Ryan had adjudged her in contempt of court last November after she declined to identify her news source.

Ryan asked her attorney:

Showdown on Filibuster Drawing Near

Northern Senators Set Strategy for Congressional Fight

Washington —(AP)— Confronted with a firm no compromise stand by 17 southern Democrats, a bipartisan group of northern senators drafted last-minute strategy today for a showdown fight over filibustering.

Seeking ways of countering the northern move, the southerners yesterday pledged an extended fight against any attempt to change the senate rules which now permit almost unlimited debate.

The issue will be raised formally when the new congress convenes tomorrow, but there were indications that actual debate on it would be delayed until Thursday or even next week because of special events arranged for new senators.

Present Its Side

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), who presided over the closed-door meeting of southerners, said his group's aim is not to avoid a vote but rather to present its side of the case.

Contending the other side has monopolized publicity so far, Russell said he is hopeful a full debate of the issues will attract sufficient support to assure his side victory in an ultimate test of voting strength.

The southerners plan to open their counter-offensive when the northern group calls for a revision of rule 22. That rule requires a two-thirds vote of the full senate membership—66 votes in the new congress—to shut off debate.

Since there is no time limit on debate over a rule change, a lengthy southern talkfest is a possibility.

Russell declined to estimate how long it will take to present the southern case but indicated it would run for several days.

Senators favoring a change in the rules called three meetings today to rally their forces. Separate meetings of Republicans and Democrats were to be followed by a joint meeting of the two groups later in the day.

Chief Strategist

Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.), a chief strategist for those advocating a rule change, already has said there is a parliamentary maneuver available to meet any southern filibuster under a rule change.

This would be a motion for the previous question. Although this device to stop debate is not now contained in senate rules Douglas says it would be in order under the parliamentary situation that will prevail at the outset of the new session.

However, the question probably would have to be settled by a ruling from Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Scientists Set Traps for Nature to Learn Secrets

BY ALTON BLAKESLEE

New York —(AP)—Over a luncheon table, Germany's Dr. Julius Bartels searched a moment for the right words:

"We set out traps for nature. Then when nature does something, we often learn her secrets."

To Bartels, professor of geomagnetism at the University of Goettingen, this was the essence of the IGY, the 18-month International Geophysical Year which just ended.

It brought the greatest single hunt in history for knowledge—about earth, sun, weather, and the new province of space into which humans are eagerly reaching.

The traps for nature were tended by 30,000 scientists and volunteers from 66 nations in a huge cooperative effort.

Now the traps are sprung. Nature is yielding a treasury of secrets, some of them totally unexpected.

The full wealth of meaning and significance, however, must await months or years while scientists analyze the literally millions of observations concerning weather, gravity, electrical phenomena, and other forces and events affecting the destiny of the earth and its people. Practical benefits are bound to come from IGY.

The sun, our life-giving star, was one main focus of IGY.

For every minute of 18 months, the sun was held under constant patrol watch by 100 observatories around the world, to count its stormy sunspots, record its gigantic flares or explosions which often choke off radio communications and hang shimmering Northern Lights in our sky.

The sun obliged, staging the greatest sunspot activity since 1778.

What Is Wrong When Prayer Fails?

A strange man in Los Angeles, known as the "Voice of Two Worlds", is offering, free of charge to the public, an astonishing Booklet which is a step forward toward the answer to this question. The search for clues led to a prolonged study of all the great religions of the world, until at last a surprising new light was thrown upon the entire subject of prayer.

In this new light, even the well known Lord's Prayer acquires astonishing new meanings. Hidden between the lines are deep significances and wonderful truths that do not appear in the words alone. The free booklet points these out and is entitled "The Magic Between the Lines of the Lord's Prayer".

"The Voice of Two Worlds", a well known explorer and geographer, tells of a remarkable system that often leads to almost unbelievable improvement of power of mind, achievement of brilliant business and professional success and new happiness. Others tell of increased bodily strength, magnetic personality, courage and poise. These strange methods were found in the Far East, where in ancient times all the great religions and philosophies of the world originated.

No one knows how he learned these wisdom and long hidden secrets three thousand years by the sages, which enabled many to perform amazing feats. He maintains that the immense powers are latent in all of us, and that methods for using them are now simplified so that they can be used by almost any person with ordinary intelligence.

In his own case, he was brought back to splendid health. He acquired wealth, too, as well as world-wide professional recognition as a leading geographer and map-maker of the Far East.

He wants to tell the whole world what he learned there, under the guidance of the wisest mystics he ever encountered during his twenty-one years in the Far East. He wants many others to experience the greater health and the Power, which here came to him.

For your free copy of the amazing free booklet entitled "The Magic Between the Lines of the Lord's Prayer", together with other free literature regarding this remarkable system, address the Institute of Mentalphysics, 218 So. Robert Blvd., Dept. 113-R, Los Angeles 4, California. Send no money. Just your name and address on a postcard will do. No obligation. # Old Melody Renewed Top Fox Cities Tune

'Smoke Gets in Your Eyes' Goes Back
To Musical Comedy Success of 1930s

BY DICK DISC

An old tune from a musical comedy of the '30's is this week's top tune in the Fox Cities. It's the Platters' version of "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," which has knocked the top tune of last week, "The Chipmunk Song," to fourth place.

"My Happiness" and "Whole Lotta Lovin," although on the charts for many weeks, are still going strong.

There are three new tunes this week. The No. 5 spot is taken by "Manhattan Spiritual," the other new ones are "Goodbye Baby" and Eddie Cochran's "C'mon Everybody."

Top Recordings

Here's this week's top 10 in the Fox Cities:

1. "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes" by the Platters.
2. "My Happiness" by Connie Francis.
3. "Whole Lotta Lovin" by Fats Domino.
4. "The Chipmunk Song" by David Seville and the Chipmunks.
5. "Manhattan Spiritual" by Reg Owen and his orchestra.
6. "C'mon Everybody" by Eddie Cochran.
7. "I'll Wait For You" by Frankie Avalon.
8. "Problems" by the Everly Brothers.
9. "Goodbye Baby" by Jack Scott.
10. "Donna" by Richie Valens.

The nation's top tune is "The Chipmunk Song" and the valley's No. 1 tune, "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," ranks in second place nationwide.

Five years ago folks were humming "That's Amore," Newcomers

In the new tune spotlight this week we find only one tune.

"Stagger Lee" by Lloyd Price, a slow starter, turns out to be a real rocker with a lot of drive. The lyrics really don't make much sense, but the beat comes right through loud and clear. It's the first "possible" tune Price has turned out in quite a while.

In albums: "The Young Frankie Avalon" with Frankie Avalon. This young man is very popular and has no trouble selling a song. He does a good job on 11 of them here with one "Trumpet Instrumental" thrown in. A few rockers, including "Pretty-Eyed Baby," a couple of ballads, including "Hold Me," and a standard or two, such as "Undecided," make up a good variety album.

"Latin Lace" with the George Shearing quintet has a good deal of sparkle and appeal—from the cover to the tunes inside. It provides top listening as the bongo rhythms are set to music in "It's Not For Me to Say" and "The Moon Was Yellow." Cool music set to a hot Latin American atmosphere.

"Dance With Dick Clark"

Actor Yul Brynner, Who won fame on stage and screen with shaved head and face, poses in a wig and beard for his role of King Solomon on the set of the film, "Solomon and Sheba," in Madrid, Spain. Brynner replaced Tyrone Power who died of a heart attack in November.

Broadway Performers Will Participate in Puerto Rico Festival

New York —A number of prominent Broadway performers are participating in Puerto Rico's first annual San Juan Drama festival Jan. 13 through March 8.

Among those taking part in the eight productions lined up by Managing Director Barry B. Yellen are Fay Bainter, Joe E. Brown, Eva Gabor, Kim Hunter, Anne Jackson and Nancy Coleman.

with the Keymen as some originals and several tunes of '58 featured in this instrumental album. The tongue-twister "Gazachstahagen" is given a rocking interpretation as is "Willie and the Hand Jive." "Miss You" is probably the top number in the album and is now available as a single. "Like Help Man" also is a cute number.

State Stations To Give Series On Composer

Music Department of WHA Prepares Eight Programs on Handel

Madison — The WHA music department revealed plans for a series of eight programs in observance of the 180th bi-centennial celebration for George Friedrich Handel (1685-1759).

State stations will broadcast the first in the series at 8:20 p.m. Friday. The series will continue as a Friday night feature through Feb. 27.

This special series of broadcasts is designed to enhance listeners' understanding and appreciation of the music of Handel, and to examine and illustrate Handel's distinctive contribution to music literature. The programs are approximately one hour in length, with the exception of the two broadcasts presenting complete performances of the opera "Julius Caesar" and the oratorio, "Solomon".

The series was prepared by Elizabeth Monschein of the WHA music staff with the assistance of Prof. Robert Monschein of the university school of music. The announcer is Jim Collins, music program supervisor of the Wisconsin State Broadcasting service.

A brochure has been prepared by WHA outlining the series, and also assisting listeners by giving them a glossary of terms used in connection with the Handel era of music as well as the terminology used in the series. Mrs. Monschein has further prepared a chronology of the composer and has listed references used in preparing the broadcasts. The brochure will be available to all listeners requesting it from WHA, Madison, Wis.

The first program includes biographical notes and comments on the nature of Handel's music, with an indication of some of the influences which made his music what it is.

Illustrations of some of the kinds of instrumental music Handel wrote, with comments on the music as indicative of the time from which it came will be broadcast Jan. 16.

The Jan. 23 program begins with examples of the church sonata and the chamber sonata, two of the baroque forms from which the concerto developed. It continues with examples of concerto grosso and some of the modifications of the form as it appears in Handel's music.

The five types of songs to which Handel turned again and again with various modifications will be illustrated in the Jan. 30 broadcast. The program deals with the three forms found in his songs, the nature of these songs, and the eighteenth century style of singing.

The program Feb. 6 presents a comparison of the types and the importance of arias, recitative, and chorus in both forms, the opera and the oratorio.

A complete performance of "Julius Caesar" will be presented Feb. 13, with comments on Handel's opera subjects, the conventions of eighteenth century opera, and the problems of modern performance and appreciation.

In addition to the complete "Solomon", the Feb. 20 program includes comments on the period in which Handel wrote oratorios, his reasons for turning from opera to oratorio, and the three kinds of oratorios he wrote.

The summary program on Feb. 27 includes an evaluation of Handel's contribution to music in relation to other musicians of his time, especially Bach.

Lawrence Says: Liberals Take McCarthy's View of Senate

Adopt Late Senator's Stand That It Isn't Continuing Body

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington — Shades of Joe McCarthy! Strange as it may seem, the so-called liberals in the senate of both parties who voted on one count to censure the Wisconsin senator in 1954 for something that happened in his previous term in the senate — are Lawrence adopting this week the very same argument he made, namely, that the senate is not a continuing body.

Expediency is the reason. The northern senators who want to change the rules to curtail filibusters — aimed principally at civil rights legislation—do not have enough strength to muster a two-thirds vote as the present rules require. They seek the right, therefore, to gag the senate by means of a 51 per cent majority vote. The southern senators who voted against McCarthy are consistent today, for they hold that the senate is a continuing body and its rules can be changed only by a two-thirds vote.

Logically the liberals, on the other hand, in their insistence that the senate is not a continuing body, ought to adopt a motion to expunge from the records of the senate their vote, which said that McCarthy should be censured for refusing to testify before a senate committee during his previous term of office.

Challenged Senate

Actually, he had been elected by the people of Wisconsin after those charges were fully aired, and, when he took his oath as a senator in January, 1953, for a new term, he challenged the senate to ask him to stand aside while it investigated any charges. This the senate did not do, but two years later, when there was an acrimonious fight against the Wisconsin senator on other grounds, the failure to testify in 1952 was trumped up as an excuse to censure him.

Another Wisconsin senator, the elder LaFollette, once had also refused to testify before a senate committee, but no action was taken against him, although he openly challenged the senate to do so.

There was another count on which the senate voted against McCarthy, and this did occur within the term that began in 1953. It concerned some uncomplimentary remarks he made about his fellow senators, but, oddly enough, this was the first time the senate ever voted censure for comments by one senator about another. This had always been regarded as the right of free speech.

It is interesting to reread today the arguments made in the 1954 anti-McCarthy debate to the effect that the senate is a continuing body and hence can look back into the record and punish a senator.

Can Refuse

There was a modicum of truth in that argument in the sense that, under its rules, the senate can always refuse to admit anyone, no matter if he is legally elected, and simply bar him on personal grounds even unrelated to his conduct in office. But such a challenge under the rules must be made before he takes the oath of office for a particular term.

It is true, of course, that the senate may at any time expel a member for any reason, but this must be by a two-thirds vote. It was well known at the time that there were not two-thirds of the senate who would have voted to expel the late Wisconsin senator, so his opponents resorted to the censure tactics.

Likewise, in examining the strategy used by the school of thought which believes the end justifies the means, it is worth noting that the effort being made this week to curtail filibusters is based on the knowledge that a majority of the senate would vote to limit debate, but two-thirds might not.

Two-Thirds

Is the senate a continuing body? Unlike the house of representatives, all of whose members go out of office every two years, only one-third of the senators come up for election every two years. This means that two-thirds of the senate are holdovers after every election. So far as they are concerned, the senate is realistically a continuing body, but the newcomers argue they should have a chance to say what the rules should be. The opponents are willing to grant them that right, but only under the existing rules requiring a two-thirds vote before any change becomes valid.

Overhaul the FCC

John Doerfer, chairman of the Federal Communications commission, recently urged radio and television station personnel to editorialize on the air, something which has been a matter of controversy almost since the first radio station began broadcasting. Actually Doerfer's suggestion is part of the FCC's withdrawal from a position that was untenable. The various FCC decisions on the restrictions of opinions on radio and TV have been unenforceable, are consistently ignored and are impossible to put into effect.

The Communications Act of 1934, which gave the power of licensing to the FCC for stations operating in the "public interest, convenience and necessity," never outlined exactly what this meant. In 1941 the FCC warned that "the broadcaster cannot be an advocate," certainly a restriction on free speech. A 1943 Supreme Court decision upholding the right of the FCC to issue network regulations confused the issue. The majority decision, written by Justice Frankfurter, declared that "Freedom of utterance is abridged to many who wish to use the limited facilities of radio . . . Because it cannot be used by all, some who wish to use it must be denied. But Congress did not authorize the commission to choose among applicants upon the basis of their political, economic or social views, or upon any capricious basis . . . The question here is simply whether the commission, by announcing that it will refuse licenses to persons who engage in specified network practices . . . is thereby denying such persons the constitutional right of free speech. The right of free speech does not include, however, the right to use facilities of radio without a license . . ."

The matter of who would be denied the facilities was up to the FCC, apparently, and not station ownership. In 1949 the FCC admitted it was all right, after all, for a broadcaster to express an opinion or to permit one side of a controversial issue to be presented if he then went out and dug up a "responsible" person to give the opposite view! This strange and wonderful application of the First amendment has never been challenged in the courts because no station has ever been denied a license on the grounds that the rule wasn't followed. But the threat remains.

Recent exposures of FCC practices and alleged scandals indicate that licenses have been granted on political grounds and capricious bases. The practice of the FCC to require broadcasting schedules of a composite week to study respective commercial and public service programs is ridiculous. It attempts to judge a station by statistics, ignoring the possibility that a more heavily commercial station may pay better personnel more money to present higher quality programs, and the fact that the public is quite uninterested in much of what the FCC considers educational. Regarding these matters alone the entire structure and status of the FCC should be studied and overhauled.

But the matter of the right to express an editorial opinion on the air goes deeper than inefficiency, corruption and impracticality. A newspaper or magazine usually has a firm editorial policy and then prints letters expressing other viewpoints because readers want them and because the other side of a controversial issue is welcomed by most editors as an acknowledged part of American freedom. But when the responsibility for giving an opposing point of view is necessary for presenting one's own, what has happened to free speech? It has been curtailed to the point of absurdity. The right to have an opinion and give it, the basis for the free speech part of the First amendment, has been lost in the vagueness of a bureaucracy's idea of what is in the "public interest."

Washington's Wedding

The bride wore "a suit of white satin, rich point lace ruffles, pearl ornaments in her hair, pearl necklace, earrings and bracelets, white satin high heeled shoes, with diamond buckles." She was "attended by a group of ladies in the gorgeous costume."

The bridegroom was "in a suit of blue and silver, lined with red silk, embroidered waistcoat, small clothes, gold shoe and knee buckles, dress sword, hair in full powder."

The place was St. Peter's church of New Kent county, Virginia, and the occasion was the marriage of Col. George Washington and Martha Dandridge Custis. The date was Jan. 6, 1759 — just 200 years ago today.

The New Kent county board of supervisors, justly proud that its county was the birthplace of Martha Washington and that the church was the "First Church of the First First Lady," in a resolution last August urged commemoration of the bicentennial and provided a facsimile page of the Alexandria Gazette of Sept. 30, 1848, which contained the above information regarding the wedding.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Mossom, in full canonicals.

Standing near the bridegroom were the vice regal governor of Virginia, several English army and navy officers, and "the very elite of Virginia chivalry of the old regime." The governor, it was noted, was "in a suit of scarlet, embroidered with gold, with bag wig and sword."

Washington's "tall, attenuated form and soldierly bearing, as with folded arms, and cocked hat in hand, respectfully, he has approached the bridal group, gives a touch of interest to the whole scene," the Alexandria Gazette reported.

"He is in scarlet coat, and is booted and spurred, having just dismounted, and relinquished the favorite charger of his chief, to a groom." (Gen. Edward Braddock was the "chief," who is said to have given the horse to Washington, his aide, after he was mortally wounded in 1755).

Through the large folding doors of the church, is seen the old fashioned coach of the bride, drawn by six horses; also the fine English charger.

From the account of the marriage, handed down from those who were present at its celebration, it appears that the bride and her ladies occupied the coach, while the provincial colonel rode his splendid charger, attended by a brilliant cortege of the gay and gallant of the land.

Gen. Robert E. Lee, in a letter dated Oct. 23, 1869, said that the church, three miles from the Custis estate, "White House," was used during the Civil war to stable federal cavalry. "The pulpit, chancel, doors, windows, floor, etc., were broken and destroyed," Lee wrote. "Since the cessation of hostilities the neighbors and others have in the best way they could restored the doors, windows, floor and stoves . . ."

The Truckers Have a Case

The spokesmen for the Wisconsin Motor Carriers association made a persuasive case before a legislative committee when they asked for some relief from what they described as unrealistically restrictive provisions of state laws regulating their operations.

Perhaps with a shrewd eye to public opinion, they refrained from asking for a change in the maximum legal load limits for the freight trucks. But they demonstrated to some effect that the axle weight formula probably ought to be revised. At the very least, this ancient method of applying the law cries for reexamination.

These columns from time to time in the last decade have been skeptical of the trucking lobby at Madison and its representations on behalf of the heavy truck carriers. While we remain doubtful about the casual dismissal of truck weight as a factor in road wear, it is clear that some of the "factual" matter on which the legislature has relied in the past has been impugned if not totally discredited. Here again there is a need for an objective reevaluation. Is there any reason why the Wisconsin highway department, with a budget of more than $100 millions a year, cannot make its own tests in this field, as it now tests materials and other elements of road making and planning?

The truckers' spokesmen rather plaintively remarked that the political climate in Wisconsin has been generally unsympathetic, and attributed it to the fact that there is an incomplete popular understanding of the role of the truck in the general economy and in the average individual's life.

It is perfectly true, of course, that truck transport has become in a few short years a huge industry — measured in employment, gross income and other tests.

It is not as evident to many of our opinion makers, in individual roles or in groups, that the truck is an indispensable component of today's high general standard of living. Hundreds of Wisconsin communities today could not exist, off the railroad lines as they are, without the services of the truck. Our commodity distribution system would be paralyzed without the cargo vehicle. It is the literal lifeline of the Wisconsin dairy industry among others.

All these things are provable. The legislature owes these men an objective hearing. Trucking is entitled to treatment as fair as any other economic interest within the state. But in a matter involving the welfare of a huge industry such as trucking and the protection of millions invested in highways, the state should have its own experts ready to question if not to challenge the testimony of lobbyists. The lobbyist can be a source of valuable information for legislators but the public interest will be better served when such testimony is examined by impartial experts.

A John R. Riedl Alumnus Pays Tribute to Journalism Teacher

Editor, Post-Crescent:

As a beneficiary of his tutelage and a grateful recipient of his friendship, may I have a few words to express a tribute to John R. Riedl, faithful servant of Appleton and officer of the Post-Crescent for so many years?

It seems a long time ago that I worked as an apprentice under his sternly watchful but kind eye. I have had no more important or valuable experience. He is my "unforgettable character." The university campuses of America abound with legends of great teachers. No more effective teacher ever lived than the man who directed your newspaper's editorial department during my residence in his city room.

It was just over 25 years ago. I had spent a ragged year at college when, with thousands of others, I found my money had run out. I asked JR for a job as a cub reporter. He could offer nothing. I asked leave to hang around the office. Gruffly, but with suspicious alacrity, he consented. He was truly hoping what he said he hoped — that something would turn up. It did. He resolved to make something of the raw boy.

There followed a happy year. With infinite patience he taught me the rudiments of the business he loved, the gathering and presentation of news, lucidly, interestingly and briefly. The youngster learned that it was a proud craft, and that he was a proud practitioner. There came the day, a little more than a year later, when the fledgling impudently asked for a raise. An incredulous grunt prefaced additional advice that was badly needed, and otherwise would not have been had. Go back to college, said he, and then we'll try it again. Followed a crisp outline of the ideal curriculum, if the youngster really wanted to become a newspaperman. The young man listened and followed the prescription almost to the letter. In a succeeding quarter of a century, he has not regretted it for a moment.

Wisconsin. In a considerable acquaintance, I have never known a man more expert in the immensely complex operations of a modern newspaper publishing business. But more important than his technical mastery was his character.

He never "suffered fools gladly." But he had a sure sense for competence and quality, in political and civic and other affairs, an infinite compassion for the unfortunate, a philosopher's tolerance and understanding of human frailties. He distinguished unerringly between the responsibility of rank and power, and the vanity of ostentation. His pride was in his family, to which he devoted himself unsparringly, his community and his work, embodied in four decades of creative association with his beloved Post-Crescent.

Others marveled at his shrewd judgments of men and events. In later life some of my contemporaries used to speculate about his capacity for forecasting election trends, to illustrate. They underestimated this man's brilliant capacity as a journalist. He knew his community and his state as few men did. Knowing, he found it easy to diagnose reactions and decisions with what other men enviously regarded as miraculous accuracy. He understood people. He knew people by the thousands. A newspaperman can have no more vital tool.

John Riedl had the self-respect of the self-made man who is happy in his life's work. Personal pride was not in him. I am proud that I was his friend, and proud of his achievements as citizen and newspaperman.

The world would be a better place for more of his mold. My deep sympathy goes to his family, upon the passing of one of the finest men I have known.

'Who Is to Tend the Flowers?'

Editor, Post-Crescent:

"Two sides to every story" they say . . . in all fairness we know this to be true and in our daily living we also know there are two sides to all mankind.

Witness the recently departed, dedicated newsman of our great Post-Crescent. A highly capable, hard-driving public servant whose entire life span was dedicated to serving his fellow man far beyond the normal hours of the average working day and most certainly, above and beyond, the call of duty.

Yet somewhere in this busy man's over-taxed schedule, he found time to gently coax to full maturity some of the most beautiful flowers God ever placed in our midst. It has often been said "God is never closer than in a garden," and being a deeply religious man, Mr. Riedl and the Master Gardener must surely have thoroughly enjoyed combining their effort and knowledge to produce the breathtaking examples of their handiwork!

So to the little girl who can no longer eagerly run to show her ever interested neighbor her brand new pair of slippers, or the pretty new ribbon in her freshly combed pony tail, or to receive the "just picked" fragrant blossom, I can truly say indeed, we do know "who is to tend the flowers" . . . for in God's eternal garden of paradise He has found the perfect gardener to assist!

State Employees Ask $5 Million Pay Hike

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — Gov. Gaylord Nelson may perhaps be excused if he asks one day soon when the bad fiscal news is going to stop.

The organized state employees have now joined, somewhat later than might have been expected, the parade of pressure groups demanding more money from the state treasury which manifestly is going to be sorely short of tax dollars to meet all demands for the next two years.

On the whole the demand of the Wisconsin State Employees association for an across the board pay boost of about seven per cent is a moderate one. Considering all the circumstances, it must have been a temptation for its leaders to ask for more. Gov. Nelson, it must be remembered, is probably as close to the public employee union movement as any politician ever elected to high place in Wisconsin. For a time his principal retainer as a lawyer came from public service unions.

Yet this demand will amount to a cool $5,000,000 a year, or another $10,000,000 for the biennial budget which at the moment promises to overshoot prospective revenues by such a margin that the most avidly pursued guessing game in the statehouse today might be entitled: "How is he going to balance the budget?"

THE SMILE

The sideline critic of public affairs may be excused, perhaps, a smile at the inconsistency betrayed here.

This pay boost demand is pegged to a survey of what has happened in private employment during the last two years, according to the announcement.

Private employers have increased their wage rates; ergo, the state should follow suit. What private management decides is good, when it comes to asking for public employee benefits. But when the legislature attempts to tie other terms of state employment to the common practices in private industry, such as vacation and other leave privileges, for example, the employees are unhappy about it. Two years ago the legislature decided to graduate vacation privileges according to tenure, as it now common in private enterprise. But the employees loudly protested, are still protesting, and will press the legislature to the utmost to repeal the system in its new sitting about to begin.

Nobody can object, it may be supposed, to the idea of permitting public service workers to be compensated for the unremitting increases in the cost of living, and especially since the employees' union made its own announcement after the state department of personnel, which occupies the management position in this instance, paved the way with its own announcement a few days before of the need for such adjustments.

THE OUTLOOK

But the legislature when it deals with the organized state employee lobby is moved by more than straight considerations of justice and equity.

The employees union is an effective and alert lobby, perhaps one of the best in state politics. This is not said disparagingly. Nor is it entirely due to the quality of its leadership, which is good.

There are about 20,000 civil servants in the employ of the state, which is a fairly small group as pressure groups go. But they have a good deal more punch in legislative affairs, for example, than would 20,000 milkmen or sugar beet producers or watchmakers.

The average legislator knows a good number of these men and women. A couple of months in Madison and even the freshman gets acquainted with them. He likes their friendship and their good will. They have an attentive lobbyist who knows the ropes, in Roy Kubista. There are plenty of state senators who feel sorry for the high wage state office clerk who would protest ferociously, as a private employer, to any such wage scale in his own establishment.

The emphasis upon the union approach to state pay scales, moreover, tends to reward the lower and unskilled ranks, at the expense of the policymakers and the professionals. The state office letters are being typed handsomely, but there is some very real doubt that salary policy has retained or attracted the best in the more crucial civil service grades lately.

Perhaps Dulles' Name Should be The Top Weapon

From The Indianapolis News

John Foster Dulles did not take The News' advice. This is not a unique experience. A great many people have not taken The News' advice.

Our advice to Mr. Dulles was not to climb out of a hospital bed, climb into an airplane and fly to Paris for a NATO meeting. But he climbed out and he flew.

The American secretary of state is a formidable man.

In fact, he may be even more formidable than his friends have heretofore realized.

At that endless Geneva gab session on atomic weapons the Russian delegate, Deputy Foreign Minister Vassili Kuznetsov, thought he heard the name of John Foster Dulles mentioned the other day.

He just thought he heard the name, mind you. He didn't really hear it.

Well, this set him off into a wild and irrational denunciation of all things western. One of his flunkies, a colonel-general, followed in like vein.

The thought here is that, maybe, we can invoke the name of John Foster Dulles — employing all the magic arts of the hidden persuaders and the psychological warfare experts — to drive communist-bloc leaders so completely batty that they cannot even tie their shoelaces. Let alone plot the destruction of the free world.

Try Sugaring Moths on A Midsummer Evening

From The Wisconsin Academy Review

If you want to spend a unique and fascinating midsummer evening in the woods, try collecting moths by the method known as "sugaring."

This method of attracting moths is accomplished with a bait made of a mixture of beer and corn syrup. Two bottles of beer mixed with two cans of syrup in a gallon jug make a very good bait of the proper consistency. This bait painted on tree trunks and fence posts along the edge of woods or along a path through open woods before sundown will attract many moths after the sun has set. Take a head lamp, a butterfly net, and a collecting bottle, and you are ready for your excursion.

Jubilant Couples Crowd Capitol Rotunda at Inaugural Ball

Gov. Gaylord A. Nelson and his wife walk down the steps in the rotunda of the capitol building as they lead the grand march at the Inaugural ball Monday night. Officials form the honor guard, while behind the couple, at left, can be seen Lt. Gov. Philo Nash and Atty. Gen John W. Reynolds, extreme left, and their wives.

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — The capitol rotunda usually appears to be a commodious place, but Monday night it was a tight little chamber as happy couples danced and milled through the crowd until late hours at one of the few inaugural balls held in modern times in Wisconsin.

Specifically, the occasion was celebration of the swearing in of Gov. Gaylord Nelson and three of four other state elective officers.

No Room to Dance
Celebrating officials wandered through the crowd to shake hands and sign autographs. The band played bravely, but most of the participants were spectators and dancing was merely a figure of speech as couples moved slowly around the floor, but not dancing according to any strict definition.

Gov. and Mrs. Nelson spent much of their time posing for eager photographers.

It was a great night for the Democrats, with the flavor of the party seeming to be the phrase that almost became a password during the long day of happy activity, "We had to wait a long time, but we made it."

Many Spectators
Democrats had their last triumph in state politics in 1933. Only a small handful of the loyal of that earlier period survived to come to the capitol Monday night. Most of those who did were content to watch the younger people.

In size, attendance at the ball was less than party publicists advertised, but weather was an excuse. Those of the party faithful who came made up for the absence of their brethren who were discouraged by sub-zero temperatures.

Novel Experience for Many
For most of the party-goers it was a novel experience. They looked around the state seat of government as people who had not examined it at close range before.

Among the participants were some Wisconsin figures who in times past apparently have not felt free to announce their feelings. The signs were that the Democrats are more numerous than even the election returns of Nov. 4 suggested.

Such celebrations of political victories are comparatively rare, historians agree, with the last being held when a Republican was installed in office in 1948. The last Democratic party 26 years ago was less exciting than Monday's

The Ball Was Drawing to a close and Mrs. Gaylord Nelson, wife of the governor, found a quiet corner where she could kick off her high-heeled pumps and stretch her toes. She talks over the day's events with a friend, Mrs. Paul Hibbard.

Ann 'Digs' Words, But Can't Hear Music to Tale of Woe

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please don't tell me my story is so old I can put it to music and dance to it. (You see I've been reading you closely!) I don't want advice designed for someone else. I am me and I need special help.

I've been married once (age 17) and it lasted two horrible years. Now I'm 33, older, and wiser, and I have my eye on a bachelor. The trouble is, just when I think I've got him some friend pops up with a business deal and he suddenly finds himself "too broke for marriage".

The guy is 42, handsome, fascinating, romantic and he says he loves me. He has gone for phony oil stocks, a new carbonated drink (which was sure to put Coca Cola out of business he said) and last July he bought part of a rock quarry that belonged to the state of Wisconsin.

I have invested four years of my time on this guy and don't want to quit too soon. What is your honest opinion? If you can suggest something constructive I would be grateful — Cha Cha Cha

Dear Cha Cha Cha

(You're dancing?): The gentleman isn't 42 and a bachelor for nothing. If he's actually getting involved in bum deals perhaps he is unconsciously keeping himself broke as protection against marriage.

Let him have 60 days in which to marry you or give up the ghost for good. If he falls for another pie-in-the-sky deal tell him it's been nice and goodbye.

DEAR ANN: Our 5-year-old son stutters badly and it's beginning to worry me. I hoped he'd outgrow it but it seems to be getting worse instead of better.

My husband becomes impatient with the boy, ridicules him, and gets him so worked up he cries.

When my mother is present and the child stutters she makes him stop and start over again and repeat each word slowly. She says this will help but I'm afraid she's wrong. Now he seldom speaks in her presence.

Please give me some help with my boy if you can. Our two older children never had this problem and I am at a loss. — Dora

Dear Dora: Stuttering is a symptom of other problems and should be handled with patience and understanding. Your husband is cruel to make fun of the child. Insist that he stop it at once. (This man is an adult?)

The stuttering child should not be made to repeat himself. This only makes him more self-conscious. Check with a college or university in your area and learn if there are any corrective speech classes. Check also on private clinics. The stutterer needs special help and I hope your child gets it.

DEAR ANN: A certain woman I play cards with thinks she is putting one over I went to school with her in Wichita Falls, Texas, and I know her birthday is the same week as mine. I was born in 1917 and so was she. This makes us both 41 years old.

It makes me boil when I hear her tell people she is "as old as Jack Benny". This means she's trying to get by as 39.

Should I embarrass her to her face the next time she pulls this? All I need is one word of encouragement from you. — Nettie she's as old as Jack Benny why not tell her she doesn't look 63.

The next time she says

Use Various Methods In Treating Stubborn Stains in Clothing, Linen

Now that the clutter of Christmas is over and the debris of holiday partying cleared from the house, many homemakers are discovering stains have marked clothing and prized linens.

Some stains dissolve best in cold water, others in hot water. Here are directions for treating common markings.

Adhesive tape: Apply kerosene, then wash in hot suds.

Alcoholic beverages: Soak or sponge with cool water promptly then wash in warm suds.

Ballpoint ink: Apply caution tetrahydro first, then wash at once with warm suds.

Candle wax: Scrape off excess wax with a table knife. Place stained spot between white blotters and press with hot iron. Then rub spot with cold lard or turpentine and wash in warm suds.

Chesse: Scrape off excess with table knife; sponge with cool water and wash in hot suds.

Chocolate or cocoa: Wash in hot suds. Treat any remaining stain with a weak solution of household bleach or hydrogen peroxide and launder in hot suds.

Coffee and tea: Stretch the stained fabric laid over a bowl and pour boiling water through it from a height of 3 or 4 feet. Then wash in hot suds.

Egg: Scrape off excess, soak in cool water, then wash in warm suds.

Glue: Soak in warm suds until dissolved, then launder in fresh warm suds.

Ice cream: Sponge the spot with cool or lukewarm water to loosen cream and egg. Then wash in hot suds. If flavoring stains remain follow directions above under chocolate.

Milk or cream: Sponge or soak with cool water, then wash in hot suds.

Paint: If fresh, use lots of

The Mmes. Lulu Schulze, Robert Boldt and Gordon Bahr, left to right, were among those Appleton church women who began observance Monday of the Universal Week of Prayer. The Boldt residence, 2 Cherry court, was site of one of the gatherings for periods of meditation.

Mrs. Louis Jordan Wants an Old-Fashioned Marriage

BY DOROTHY ROE

Hollywood — "I want an old-fashioned house with an old-fashioned millionaire."

This has been the announced ambition of Berthe Fredrique Jourdan since she was a 10-year-old school girl in France. Now, as wife of the French film star, Louis Jourdan, and mother of his 7-year-old son, also named Louis, but never called Junior, life is complete for small, blonde, casual and always chic

"Quique" Jourdan (pronounced "Keek")

"If the luckiest thing in the world for Louis that he married a wife with no talent and no ambitions," said Quique. "In France we are brought up to know how to appreciate a husband. There it is not so easy to get married, because a man can have a mistress and nobody even raises an eyebrow. When you do get married, it's for life.

A chic French girl who never wanted to be anything but a successful wife has realized her ambition. And she has a handsome and popular husband in the bargain. Here is a profile of Mrs. Louis Jourdan, last in an 8-part series on movie wives.

"I think it is a better system than here, where you go to Las Vegas and get married on a whim, and if it doesn't work out, go back to Las Vegas and get a divorce."

Louis and Quique met in southern France during the German occupation of Paris, when he was an established French star and a member of the French resistance movement at 20, and she was just a plain girl with a goal. They were married in 1946 and came immediately to Hollywood, where they have lived ever since, making annual excursions back to Europe. Says Quique:

"Louis' plan, which we have followed most of the time, is to make one picture every year in France, one in England and one in America. It keeps us on the move, and it makes us really people without a country. We no longer belong to France, and we are always treated as visitors in England and Hollywood. But I like it that way. It gives you perspective."

No Jealousy

The Jourdans are members of Hollywood's ultra-chic social circle, made up mostly of producers, directors and an occasional writer. They entertain charmingly in their comfortable, mellow Beverly Hills home, furnished with antiques and books. They avoid night clubs and public appearances. They enjoy life. Jourdan has played opposite most of filmdom's top-voltage stars, including Ingrid Bergman, Grace Kelly, Doris

Day, Jennifer Jones, Brigitte Bardot, and Lauren Bacall. But none of these charmers give Quique an instant's anxiety. She remarks:

"When we were first married, I did find it difficult to remain calm when women swarmed all over Louis every time we appeared in public. But then I made up my mind to stay in the background, and to trust Louis' good sense and our love."

"Why worry in advance? It never does any good. If Louis should decide he wants somebody else, I would not be able to change his mind anyway. But so far it has not been necessary."

No Big Scene

"I've always believed that if you don't invent reasons for jealousy, they usually don't happen. But if you get jealous and make a big scene, you make everything more important to your husband. Even if he has not thought of it before, he will decide that if you are so upset about some other woman, she must be more exciting than he had noticed before, and he will go and find out."

Quique says she did not swoon when she first met Louis, and that it was his mind and his soul that first attracted her, rather than his looks.

"I'm not the type to swoon," says she. "But Louis is so serious, so straight, so honest, that maybe I was swooned by that."

He looks for an intellectual challenge in everything. This I admire, although I cannot always follow him.

"So I make for him a good

Bringing Up Baby.

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

When a baby reaches the sit-up stage, you'll find he'll like more companionship and a change of scene from time to time. So why not treat him to a special seating arrangement occasionally. In the living room, say, while you're doing the pick-up chores. A car-seat, attached to the davenport or grown-up chair, is fun. If you don't have a car-seat, a stroller or swing seat will do nicely. Any one will give baby a wonderful vantage point from which to view your tidy-ing.

It is an established fact that proteins are the great "building materials," the great strength-givers of the body. Excellent source of precious proteins: Gerber Strained and Junior Meats.

These quality meats are made with the exacting care you'd expect of two specialists — Gerber and Armour. Made from succulent, selected Armour cuts, they're specially processed to remove most of the fat and coarse tissue. Special, controlled cooking helps preserve natural meat flavors and a high degree of wholesome food values.

Surprise element. A column reading mother writes: "No more tears when we leave Susie with a sitter. That's because I keep a supply of dime-store toys on hand, and each time the sitter comes I give her a new surprise for Susie. Susie thinks her sitter is just about the best fairy godmother ever."

I often wonder how you mothers judge baby foods. By color? By flavor? By nutrition? All three are important, but nutrition is certainly the most important. That's why Gerber specialists work tirelessly to develop nourishing foods. For example: After 7 years of experimentation, Gerber experts developed 2 varieties of sweet potatoes which contain higher vitamin-C and vitamin-A values than ordinary sweet potatoes. # Important to know Proper Way to Care For Sewing Machine

Were you one of the lucky women who received a sewing machine for Christmas? If so, you will want to learn at the start how to keep it in tip-top shape to give you sewing pleasure for many years.

A sewing machine, like any other fine piece of equipment, requires a bit of care and conditioning to do its best work. For women who received a new machine, here are tips on care and cleaning from the experts at your local sewing center.

Always keep your sewing machine covered between sewing sessions, to protect it from dust. Keep attachments in a box. The newest sewing machine models come equipped with a specially designed plastic box with special sections for individual attachments, oil, stitch pattern discs, and the instruction booklet.

Storing Machine
When the machine is not in use, it is a good idea to let the presser foot down on a scrap of cloth, to help the tension stay at proper adjustment, and to take up any excess oil. When storing machine for several months remove dust and lint and oil before storing to prevent rust damages caused by moisture-holding lint.

Proper cleaning is important to a sewing machine. The bobbin case is a favorite lodging place for dust and lint, and this should be used to keep the machine free of lint. Remove bobbin and bobbin case, and clear away all foreign matter. Some of the newer sewing machines have a drop-in bobbin, which is very easy to remove and replace.

Keep It Clean
Also brush between the tension discs, and under the head of the machine. A good feature of several of the most popular sewing machines is the removable cover on the under side of the machine. This cover helps keep the moving parts clean, and free of dust.

After all lint has been removed, refer to the instruction booklet which comes with your machine for points to oil.

Place a tiny drop of oil in all oil holes and wherever there is movement of parts. You will find oiling parts in such places as the bobbin winder, near the bobbin case, on the head of the machine, inside the face plate where the needle mechanism is located, and underneath the machine.

Automatic machines will also need occasional oiling around the mechanisms that operate the zigzag movement of the needle on an automatic machine with a stitch chart, oilings recommended in area underneath the stitch chart.

Oil Carefully
Apply only one drop of oil in each of the holes and don't oil too heavily. Too much is wasteful, and will collect dust. Be sure to use the right kind of oil, especially suited to sewing machines.

Some portions of the machine, such as the gears require lubrication rather than oiling. Follow directions in your instruction book for this. After cleaning and oiling, test machine for correct tension, pressure and stitch adjustment. If you own a zigzag machine, test several of the stitches to make sure this part of the machine is working correctly.

With good care, your sewing machine will give you years of faithful service.

Vacation Wardrobe

If you're on the lucky list for a cruise or resort holiday, consider building your wardrobe around white. The scheme's terrific!

In the first place, white is a choice with a fashion future. Too, it looks more striking with a tan than any other color. And it is so easy to accessorize, strikingly.

The freshest way is with the new brilliant accessory shades—sunny yellow, acid green and hot pink. Or with the new mutations—nougat, bone, coffee-milk. The effect comes clear when you picture a white linen shirt-dress with a sunny yellow cartwheel... a white nubby wool coat with nougat kid pumps and travel bag... a white chiffon Empire-line dinner dress with a geranium pink stole. Stunning combinations, those!

Other than the costume types mentioned above, those to look for are swim suits with a high-rise waist and pleated skirt; "kimono" beach coats; terry beach dresses; Jamaica length skirts, as a change from shorts; cotton knit dresses in blouson or Empire silhouettes.

You can be sure all of these fashions will make good and handsome "trippers," now and through next summer, white linen shirt-dress with a sunny yellow cartwheel... a

"But we ran into a number of misconceptions about Britain," said Cecily. "Many people here still seem to have the idea that the British working class is oppressed, that food is rationed in our country, that the British have no sense of humor, and that everyone in England drinks tea. Neither of us happens to like tea."

What thing about America upset them most? "I suppose," said Hilary. "It was the time we went on a date out west and one of the boys ordered a hamburger and topped it with a slice of pineapple and a maraschino cherry."

And the hardest thing about America to adjust to? "Girls going to work in their morning still wearing bobby pins in their hair," said Cecily. "No, men wearing T-shirts in public," said Hilary.

What did they miss most from their homeland? "Things Longed For," said Hilary. "The taste of good sharp cheese," said Cecily. "Here all your cheese seems to be processed."

"We both missed the year-round greenness of England," added Hilary. "What quality do they think we took a number of vacations so we could get to see more?"

In Good Taste May Alter Tables in Restaurant

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I would very much appreciate your opinion on the following matter: Last evening a friend and I went into a restaurant for dinner. We were shown to a table and handed a menu. I soon discovered that we were sitting in a draft and suggested to my friend that we move to another table. When the waiter came back to take our order and saw that we had changed our table he seemed quite perturbed. Will you please tell me if we were wrong to do this?

Answer: No, but you might have said something like the following to the waiter, "Sorry, but we have moved to this table because there was a draft at the other one."

Birth Announcement
Dear Mrs. Post: My little girl is 8 and I am expecting another child soon. Would it be proper to send announcements for this one also? My husband does not think we should send them out, but I can't see why the arrival of this second baby is any less important than the first.

Answer: I think it is true that the arrival of a first baby is always momentous news. Reports of others are taken each time more casually. However, there is no rule against sending announcements no matter how many times there may be occasion to do so. In this particular case it seems to me that after eight years, a second baby would cause quite as much interest as did the first.

Tuxedo Indicated
Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I received an invitation to a large semipublic dinner. The invitation specifies black tie. Will you please tell me exactly what this means?

Answer: Black tie means that the men are expected to wear tuxedos and the women, not too elaborate evening dresses.

Pierre Outlines City's Growth

The growth of Appleton from 1943 when he first took office to the present day was outlined by City Assessor John Pierre when he spoke before the Men's club of First Baptist church Monday evening.

He noted the assessed value of the city has grown from $53 million in 1943 to $112 million today.

Pierre talked in place of Mayor Mitchell, who was in Madison attending the inauguration of Gov. Nelson.

Alderman Says Police Could Solve Snarl

Wants Officer at Oneida-Prospect, Not $180,000 Project

The city ought to solve the Oneida street-Prospect avenue traffic snarl with a policeman rather than a $180,000 reconstruction project, Ald Robert Stumpf believes.

Stumpf told fellow street and sanitation committee members Monday the traffic problem at the corner should be solved the same way Neenah and Menasha handle similar situations.

The south side alderman was emphatic in opposition to spending the $180,000, an estimated cost reported by Director of Public Works Duszynski from preliminary studies still underway.

Neenah and Menasha have much bigger traffic problems at several corners than we have and they use traffic police to solve them," he said. "The police do a good job of moving traffic. There are no big tieups."

Hold Decision
Ald Mrs Dorothy Stilling, advocated a traffic policeman to solve the problem in one of the two recent resolutions. The request was denied on advice of the public safety committee, which said there was no problem.

The street committee asked Duszynski for a cost estimate of reconstruction work after a resolution by Ald Ervin J. Bogan, who called for addition of a third traffic lane on Prospect avenue as it approaches the corner. Committee members made no decision on Stumpf's request. Chairman Ald. Roy Pointer said it would be best to wait until completed plans for reconstruction. It may be, he said, that the city will have to do the work even if a policeman is ordered to direct traffic. Duszynski was authorized to talk with Chamber of Commerce Sec. Kenneth Corbett over feasibility of asking business and industry to stagger quitting and closing times to relieve traffic snarls throughout the city.

Area Schools Get $525,000 From Ford

Lawrence Included; Group Will Set Up Office in Chicago

The Ford Foundation has granted $525,000 to the Associated Colleges of the Midwest, of which Lawrence college is a member, to help launch a broad cooperative attack on educational and financial problems.

The grant went to Cornell college, Mount Vernon, Iowa, fiscal agent for the group, and will be used to set up an office in Chicago. The money will not go directly to the colleges.

The foundation money will cover basic operating costs of the organization for five years and the group is expected to raise matching funds to be used for special projects and later operations.

Other members of the association, which was set up last year with a $25,000 grant from Ford, are Ripon College, Carleton College, Grinnell College, Monmouth and St. Olaf colleges. Together they enroll 10,000 students and have 700 faculty members.

Another Grant
Lawrence also has received a $4,000 grant from the DuPont company for support of teaching in scientific and technical fields. The school was one of 76 institutions, mostly liberal arts colleges, and 23 privately controlled universities to receive the award.

Each of the grants consists of $2,500 for chemistry teaching and $1,500 for other courses. Lawrence has received the same aid from DuPont for the last several years.

Other midwest schools receiving similar grants are Beloit, Carleton, Coe, Cornell, Grinnell, Knox and Monmouth colleges.

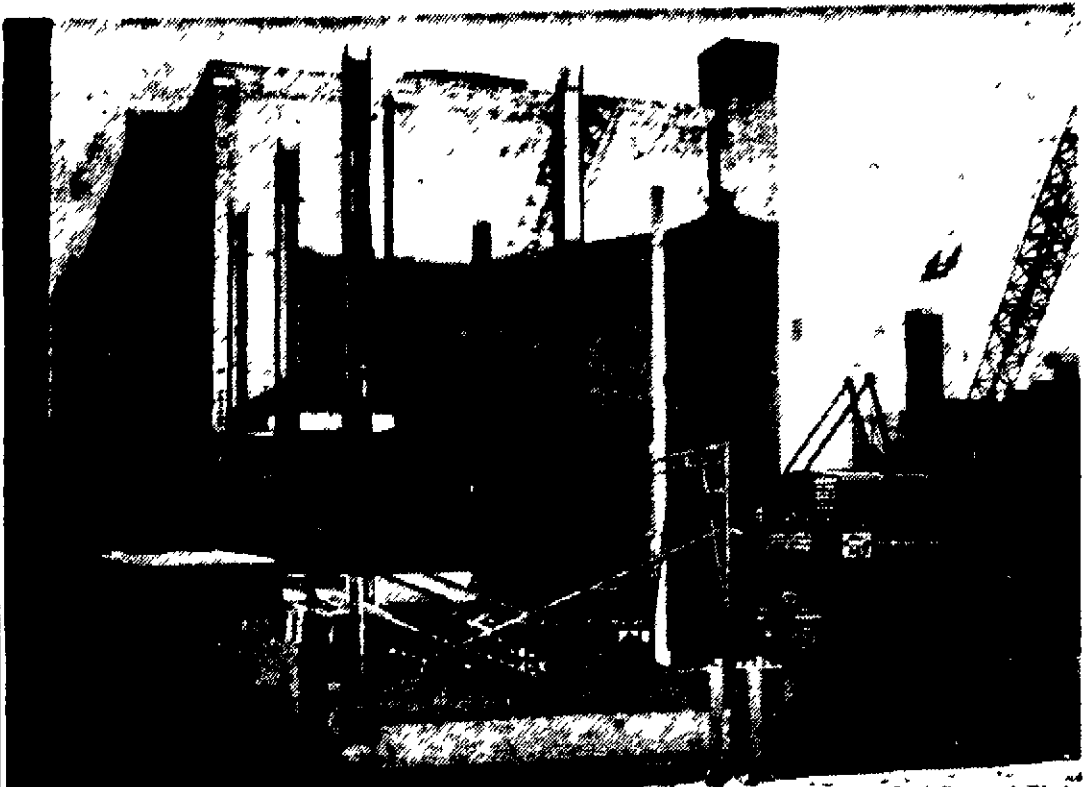

The University of Wisconsin also has received $5,000 from DuPont for its chemical engineering department.

97-Year-Old Waupaca Man Dies at Home

Thorwald Nelson, 97, 207 N. Division street, Waupaca, died Monday at his home after a long illness. He was born May 12, 1861, in the country of Denmark. He came to Waupaca with his parents in 1883.

A shoemaker by trade, Nelson operated a shoe repair shop in Waupaca until seven years ago, when he retired. Funeral services will be at 1:30 p.m. Thursday at the Holy Family home, Waupaca, with burial in Lakeside cemetery, Waupaca. The Rev. Oscar L. Stanku, pastor of First Methodist church, will officiate. Friends may call at the funeral home after 1:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Survivors include four daughters, Mrs. Clarence Nelson, Colby; Mrs. Myron Godfrey, Waupaca; Mrs. Kenneth Christy, Waukegan, Ill.; and Mrs. Earl Granberg, Oshkosh. Four sons, Harry Madison, Waukegan; George, Wisconsin Rapids; and Robert, Waupaca, 21 grandchildren and 53 great-grandchildren.

Street Committee Talks of Sidewalk Replacement Plan

The street and sanitation committee Monday discussed, but took no action on, City Atty. Don L. Jury's suggestion for a continuing sidewalk replacement program.

Jury's concern, it was explained, stems from the fact that courts have changed their view of city responsibilities for accidents due to defective sidewalks.

At one time, it was said, courts held cities couldn't be sued for damages but lately cities have been held liable and appeals have supported the contention.

The city has several damage suits resulting from defective walks in the courts now, it was reported. Jury suggests that the replacement of the walks should not be brought to the attention of the city by the alderman of the ward involved.

Aldermanic origination of replacement orders could put too much pressure on the alderman and defeat the idea, he was reported as saying.

Director of Public Works Duszynski said he could have the public works inspector begin a street-by-street survey in the early spring when there are few public works projects in progress anyway.

It would be impossible to canvass the city in one year but the program could result in total replacement of defective walks within a few years if the city was divided into sections, one for each year, Duszynski said.

Around Home...

Saddest boy at Lawrence college so far in 1959 is Roho Llerandi, Madison, who got his post-Christmas academic enterprise off to a running start by unloading his suitcase onto the walk near his dormitory just in time to be asked to move his car by a man who had something to do in nearby Memorial chapel at that moment. You guessed it—the suitcase remained on the sidewalk and at 2 a.m. Roho awoke with a start and raced outside to find it gone.

"I don't care about my clothes and those things," moans Roho, "but my term paper was in it—and I need that term paper to graduate in February."

Safety Device Study Goes on Viaduct Problem Referred to City Engineer's Office

The problem of providing a pedestrian safety device under the Wisconsin avenue railroad viaduct was referred to the city engineering department for a recommendation Monday by the street and sanitation committee.

Nearly 100 petitioners and two aldermen, Roy Pointer and Douglas Ogilvie, are seeking some sort of device. Both the street committee and the public safety committee have had the problem under consideration for more than a month.

The engineers also are asked to prepare cost estimates for three schemes offered the street committee by the public safety committee. Some of them came from citizens who appeared before the safety committee.

Three Schemes
1. Raise the sidewalks under the viaduct so that they can act as a barrier to vehicles which might otherwise jump the curb. Install a fence high enough to discourage climbing youngsters.

2. Install deflectors like those on the Memorial drive bridge.

3. Erect only a high screen fence.

Some safety committeemen believe the raised sidewalk will cost too much. Some fear children will walk atop the deflectors. Others fear the fence only arrangement would not be enough to keep careening vehicles from jumping the curb.

Wrong Passenger Listed in Crash

Kaukauna — Mrs. Hubert Fassbender, route 3, Kaukauna, and not Mrs. Herbert Fassbender, as reported Monday, complained of neck injuries in a 3-car collision at the railroad crossing on Main avenue Friday afternoon.

She was a passenger in a car driven by Mrs. Kathleen Vande Yacht, route 3, Kaukauna. Mrs. Vande Yacht stopped for a train and her car was struck from behind by a car driven by Lawrence Jochman, 1912 N. Richmond street, Appleton, and his car was struck by a car driven by David Derus, 18, 218 Brothers street, Kaukauna.

Alley Cutback Request Sent City Planners

Program Ordered For Storm Sewers In Older Sections

Abandonment of alley requirements south of Wisconsin avenue along St. Joseph cemetery was referred to the city planning commission Monday by the street committee.

The planning commission has had the revamping of all alley requirements along Wisconsin avenue under advisement for several years and it is said to be ready to undertake the changes.

Other street committee action. The engineering department was ordered to work up a program for separation of storm waters from sanitary sewers in the older sections of the city. Some $15,000 is budgeted for the work this year.

March of Dimes

The March of Dimes was given permission to erect a banner across Appleton street at Washington street.

Street and sanitation employees, it was ruled, will not be permitted to take vacations of less than one week at a time without permission of the director of public works.

Easements were accepted for installation of the $8,800 sanitary sewer trunk in the former Estabrook farm. Owners of the South Meadows plat have posted the required $5,000 against the coming assessment for the work.

Institute Gets $25,000 Gift For Loan Fund

The Institute of Paper Chemistry has received a gift of $25,000 from the D.S. and R.I. Gottesman foundation for the establishment of the D. Samuel Gottesman Loan fund.

The fund, established to help students who would be unable to continue studies without financial assistance, honors the memory of the late D. Samuel Gottesman.

Gottesman, at the time of his death in 1956, was president of Gottesman and Company, merchants of wood pulp and paper, and Central National corporation, investment bankers.

Appleton Coated Plans Addition

Appleton Coated Paper company intends to build a 200 by 100 foot addition to its sorting room on Wisconsin avenue.

A 1-story building, with basement storage area, will be constructed so office space can be added as a second floor in the future.

Details were revealed Monday in a street and sanitation committee meeting as Thomas E. Orbison, consulting engineer, asked for permission for the company to place footings under the sidewalk on Wisconsin avenue.

The committee will recommend council approval of the request.

Appleton Coated, Orbison said plans to call for bids on Feb. 1. Company officials say building intentions depend on bids.

Two Drivers Lose Licenses

One Pays $100, Other Fined $200 For Drunken Driving

Two men were fined and had their driver's licenses revoked for one year in municipal court today for drunken driving.

Ronald J. Jansen, 20, 702 1/2 W. Wisconsin avenue, changed his plea to guilty and was fined $100.

Jansen was arrested by county police about 1:10 a.m., Dec. 21, after they followed him at speeds of 55 miles an hour in Kimberly and 75 miles per hour on County Trunk Z outside the village.

He tested .19 on the drunkometer. A reading of .15 is considered evidence of intoxication.

Lloyd A. Koepke, 34, route 1, Bonduel, admitted a charge of drunken driving and was fined $200.

Koepke was arrested by county police about 7:15 p.m. Monday after his car crashed into the rear of the second of two cars stopped for a traffic signal at Highways 41 and 47. County police estimated damage to the three cars at $1,000.

BY JOE MOOSHILL
Associated Press Sports Writer

The saying goes that the team which wins on the road will grab the Big Ten basketball championship.

That's exactly what Northwestern and Illinois did Monday night in the second round of conference play.

As a result, the Wildcats and Illini are leading what could be one of the tightest races in league history.

In conference play, only Northwestern, Illinois and Minnesota are undefeated, and the Gophers have yet to play a second game. Monday night Northwestern defeated Michigan at Ann Arbor, 83-79; Illinois won at Wisconsin, 77-51; Indiana whipped Purdue, 77-69; at Bloomington and Iowa dumped Michigan State, at Iowa City.

At this early stage, Northwestern is the only pre-season favorite living up to expectations.

Stymied by Hawks
Michigan State, lucky to get by Indiana in its opener, was stymied by Iowa, and Purdue now has an 0-2 record.

Northwestern didn't have as much trouble against Michigan as anticipated since the Wildcats were without the services of Phil Warren who will be out of action for three weeks because of a fractured foot.

Northwestern edged to a 40-39 halftime lead and shortly after the second half had started, the Wildcats were in front, 57-44. Willie Jones provided the heroics for NU. He led all scorers with 26 points and captured 26 rebounds.

When Michigan threatened late in the game, Jones pumped in six points and put the Wildcats into a more comfortable lead. M. C. Burton topped Michigan with 23 points. Nick Mantis had 23 points for Northwestern while Joe Ruklick was held to 16.

Tough Zone
Indiana, coming up with a tough zone defense, apparently isn't ready to relinquish its title. Mixing their fast break with set plays, the Hoosiers overcame a 35-34 Purdue halftime lead and went ahead to stay at 42-41. Frank Radovich tossed in 27 points for the Hoosiers.

Michigan State, the No. 5 team in the nation, held a 44-41 halftime lead over the Hawkeyes but were outscored, 39-24, in the second half. The Spartans dropped behind, 61-58, and then went scoreless for five minutes while Iowa spurted into a 72-58 advantage.

Clarence Wordlaw, with 26 points, and Dave Gunther, with 21, led the Hawkeyes. Bob Anderregg was high for MSU with 23.

Four more conference games are scheduled Saturday. Ohio State will be at Michigan in a regionally-televated contest and Michigan State goes to Illinois in another matinee Night game. Find Indiana at Northwestern and Wisconsin at Purdue.

This collegian could prove quite a stimulus to American tennis, and maybe his example will speed the development of another Kramer, Gonzales or Budge—of the "home grown" variety.

Dick Koepke, one of the stalwarts in the line for Appleton's twice-in-a-row grid champs of '56 and '57, dropped in for a holiday - recess chat. He lettered as a Lake Forest college freshman (one of six frosh among 18 on the varsity to letter.) The team won five of eight games. He played first string on defense and second string on offense. The Foresters, who lose only a few to graduation, expect to have a strong '59 team. Koepke is already looking forward to a home-field crack at conference champion Wheaton, which trampled the Foresters in '58. Jim Yeakey, another former all-conference Terror lineman, won a Lake Forest numeral in his frosh year.

Did you notice that three starters and four of the first six men used by Michigan State in last Saturday's TV game are Badger starters? (How the UW could use a couple of them.) Green Bay's Lance Olson and Tom Rand and Monroe's Bob Anderregg started, while Monroe's Dave Fahs was the first sub. The 5-9 Fahs, who seems to have taken away Rand's job by his performance against Indiana, proved that there's still a place in college basketball for little men.

During their recent Washington stay during the baseball meetings last month, the Foxes' Ray McClone and Bob Willis once shared a hotel elevator with former President Harry Truman. Truman was very cordial to them, but they failed to bring back the signed contract of HST, who used to be a pretty fair opening-day pitcher at Grif-fith stadium.

Neenah's Tom Wiesner, a topflight Badger griddler as a sophomore, is keeping in shape boxing. He is scheduled to be one of five heavyweights competing in this week's tournament of contenders in the UW fieldhouse.

Joe Ruklick Leads Big 10 Point Parade

Chicago —(AP)— Northwestern's Joe Ruklick today led the Big Ten all-games basketball scoring parade by a scant 6-point margin over Dave Gunther, Iowa's sharpshooter. Ruklick and Gunther are well ahead of the No. 3 man, Willie Merriweather of Purdue. Merriweather has a 20.4 average.

Thieves Show Odd Tastes

Little Falls, N. J. —(AP)—Thieves here displayed a variety of tastes in 1958.

One stole a piccolo, while another bounced off with an auto spring. Other loot included a grave cover wreath, two sea shells and a garbage can.

The thefts were listed in the annual police report submitted at the township committee meeting here last night.

In addition to the thefts, the report told of one cat and one chipmunk bite and of an instance when police were called to quiet a group of boys throwing hymnbooks in church.

Pakistan Hopes To Collect Tax On Hidden Incomes

Karachi, Pakistan —(AP)—Pakistan's military government hopes to collect at least $57,750,000 in taxes on previously concealed incomes which have recently been declared.

The finance ministry said today the equivalent of $231 million in untaxes income had been admitted up to the end of 1958 under government order. The income will be taxed at 25 per cent, the ministry said.

More hidden wealth is expected to come to light before the Jan. 15 deadline for declarations, a ministry official said.

Speaks at Dinner

The 63-year-old Mikoyan, second in Kremlin power only to Khrushchev, laid these cards on the table in replying to questions at an exclusive dinner put on for him by Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Assn. of America.

Johnston was apologetic afterward for inviting some newsmen and letting others shiver outside his swank headquarters in 15-degree temperature. He said the five invited were "personal friends."

Hovering outside also were about 50 anti-communist pickets, refugees from Iron Curtain countries. Sparked by former freedom fighters in Hungary's abortive 1956 revolt against communism, they brandished placards, shook fists and screamed in cadence: "Mik-o-yan the murderer!"

Mikoyan and his party, arriving for the dinner in a Soviet embassy Cadillac, paid no attention to the pickets. Neither did the 48 other guests, about equally divided between state department officials, congressional leaders, selected newspapermen and business executives.

Worries Security Men

The bouncy, impulsive Mikoyan shrouded his plans for today in mystery, as usual. Not even the state department's harried security men know when he is apt to rocket out the front door of the Soviet embassy, bound on a hike about Washington or off on a motor trip to nearby Rock Creek park. He made such trips, both unheralded, yesterday and Sunday.

Yesterday also he conferred for 95 minutes with Sec. of State Dulles at the state department, primarily about Berlin. Afterward, he said he will talk about Berlin and other tension topics with President Eisenhower on Jan. 19 or 20.

He is due back in Washington Jan. 19 after visiting several American cities. It was learned he will fly at 8 a. m. tomorrow to Cleveland to confer with industrialist Cyrus Eaton.

The American millionaire recently conferred in Moscow with Khrushchev and Mikoyan and accepted a Russian sleigh as a gift from the premier.

Predicts Negotiations
After Cleveland, Mikoyan goes Thursday to Detroit and Friday to Chicago, with stops later at San Francisco, Los Angeles, New York, Boston and Philadelphia. An expected Dallas visit was tentatively ruled out.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.), one of those at last night's dinner, told reporters he got the impression from Mikoyan that the Russians are willing to negotiate a Berlin settlement.

"But what they are willing to do, I don't know," Humphrey said.

Johnston, who was himself harassed by picket placards saying, "Eric the jerk," for giving the dinner, released quotations from Mikoyan's formal address to the diners. Mikoyan was quoted as saying:

"We think there should be more contacts at all levels—from the lowest to the highest. And in order not to spend years in trying to work out an agenda, it is best to meet without one. I think that is where we are heading."

Economic Competition

"It might seem that contacts between people are a minor matter. I would say that these contacts have brought about warmer winds in our cold war relations. Let us compete in having more milk and more meat and more clothing for people. And we hope you won't complain if we do catch up with you."

Mikoyan and Dulles used almost identical language in describing their 9 - minute noontime talk. Each said they discussed Berlin, the whole German question, disarmament and trade. Informed officials said that was just about the order of importance, with Berlin and Germany taking most of the time.

These officials also said nothing was decided in the Dulles - Mikoyan meeting, that each probed and sparred like prize fighters in the first round. After Mikoyan's out-of-Washington visits, they are expected to come to closer grips in what Mikoyan called "a further exchange of views."

Mikoyan spoke of his conference with Dulles as "a useful preliminary exchange." State department spokesman Lincoln White declared, "the atmosphere was cordial, friendly and frank."

After conferring with Dulles, Mikoyan lunched at the Soviet embassy with Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov and Humphrey, who recently talked for a marathon eight hours with Khrushchev at the Kremlin. The Minnesota senator said afterward he was pessimistic about reaching some agreement with Russia on suspension of nuclear tests.

Humphrey's pessimism on that point was born out later by others who attended the Johnston dinner. They said Mikoyan told them Russia is insisting on a veto in any control organization set up to supervise any international ban on nuclear tests. This is the crux of the east-west talks on the subject which resumed yesterday at Geneva.

Hit Snag In Airline Strike Talks

Washington —(AP)—Federal mediators hit an apparent snag early today in efforts to work out final details of a tentative agreement between American Airlines and its striking pilots.

"All I can say is that we seem to be making a little progress," Chairman Leverett Edwards of the National Mediation board said after a lengthy negotiating session that ran past midnight.

He refused to amplify beyond saying another meeting was scheduled today in an attempt to end the 18-day walk-out.

Edwards told newsmen late yesterday that tentative agreement had been reached between the company and the Airline Pilots association. On most major issues and that only final details remained to be ironed out.

Edwards, indicating the tentative agreement included major wage issues, said at the time a hitch could develop, "but I'm a persistent optimist."

Approximately 1,500 pilots are seeking higher wages and fewer work hours on the new jet airliners American intends to put in service soon.

Nelson Turns Up in Non-Matching Clothing, Won't Wear His Carnation

name basis before the processional party was formed.

"Well, do you think I can find a place around here to hang up my coat?" Reynolds asked newspapermen.

Reynolds' wife, Pat, was dressed in a black dress and white gloves to witness the swearing in of her husband and to stand with him during the afternoon in a receiving line in the attorney general's offices.

The Reynolds' 6-year-old daughter, Kate, also was present, but another daughter, 18-month-old Molly, had to content herself with listening to the event on the radio at the Madison home of Reynolds' aunt, Lucille Reynolds.

Tom Reynolds, the new attorney general's brother who is a Broadway actor, also was present. It also was witnessed by Reynolds' sister, Ruth, of Green Bay, and an uncle, Sidney Reynolds, of Jacksonport in Door county.

Reynolds takes over the office once filled by his father, John Reynolds, Sr., also a Green Bay lawyer, who died last year.

The senior Reynolds, a Progressive, was attorney general between 1927 and 1933. Three staff members of the attorney general's office during the senior Reynolds' tenure still are on the staff, including Mortimer Levitan, an assistant attorney general.

A sign bragging that Clear Lake, a small Polk county community, is Nelson's home town was hung across the rotunda from the platform early in the morning.

The home town friends gave Nelson a round of applause when he appeared on the platform at 11 a.m. to check the lectern. Nelson later asked that the Clear Lake residents be moved to the head of the reception line because of their 6-hour return auto trip to northwestern Wisconsin.

It was business as usual for an apparently unusual telephone man. He went about the business of installing a telephone for a desk in a reception room outside the governor's office while the official inaugural party was assembling.

Mrs. Shirley Cherkasky, Outagamie county Democratic chairman, was an Eighth district member of the inaugural committee, along with John Duffy, Green Bay lawyer. Kenneth Traeger, Gresham, unsuccessful candidate for congress in November against Rep. Melvin Laird, was a committee member from the Seventh district.

Connie Lutz, a University of Wisconsin student from Oconto Falls, was a hostess for the inaugural ball Monday night.

Miss Lutz was among four finalists for the title of Alice in Dairyland last year and the Wisconsin candidate for the 1958 American Dairy association princess title.

The noon ceremony began with the strains of "On Wisconsin" by three trumpeters of the University of Wisconsin band from the top-most balcony of the capitol dome. Other music was provided by the university Men's Glee club and the 32nd Division band.

Faces in the crowd... Mrs. Helen Kasberg, former Eighth district Democratic chairman from Green Bay; James Dillon, Green Bay; Carl Mennen, a Brown County First District assemblyman candidate last fall; John Brogan Jr., De Pere, who worked in the Nelson campaign and who helped keep reception lines organized Monday.

Jerome Reinke, Kewaunee, who became the only Democratic candidate for state constitutional office to lose last fall in his race for secretary of state; Milo Singler, Shiocton, Democratic candidate for Eighth district congressman in 1956 and 1958.

George Farah, Green Bay merchant; Emmet T.erry, Teamsters Local 75 chief and a state official of his union; William Duffy and Donald Miller, Green Bay lawyers; and Jack O'Malley, business agent for Green Bay's laborers local.

Monday's zero weather gave basis to a oft-repeated crack attributed to, among others, new Lt. Philo Nash.

The crack was that the Republicans always said it would be a cold day when the Democrats won and that the weatherman was providing the setting.

Teamsters Sign Pact With Co-op

Consolidated Agrees to Increase Wages; Revise 2-Year Contract

Consolidated Badger Cooperative and the Teamsters union have agreed on a completely revised 2-year contract and pay increases ranging from 15 to 18 cents an hour.

The contract covers about 220 workers in Appleton, Seymour, Shawano, Iowa and Wittenberg. The contract is effective immediately.

Appleton Local 583 also represents the Wittenberg workers, Green Bay Local 75 represents Shawano and Seymour workers and Wisconsin Rapids Local 354 represents Iowa workers. The contract covers drivers and plant workers. About 60 in Appleton are affected.

The work week in all plants was cut to a guaranteed 40 hours per five days, with two consecutive days off, except in Appleton. Appleton workers will work a 42-hour week, with the week to be cut to 40 hours in the 1960 contract year.

Pay Increases

Starting rates were boosted from $1.48 an hour to $1.63 in 1959, $1.80 in 1960; workers with the company from 60 days to six months went from $1.32 hourly to $1.66, $1.86 hourly in 1960; workers with the firm between six months and a year from $1.61 hourly to $1.77, $1.95 in 1960; unskilled labor from $1.70 hourly to $1.87, $2.06 in 1960; semi-skilled labor from $1.77 hourly to $1.94, $2.14 in 1960; skilled labor from $1.85 hourly to $2.03, $2.23 in 1960, and semi-trailer drivers and mixed truck drivers from $1.91 hourly to $2.09, $2.30 in 1960. In the latter classification, Appleton drivers went from $1.87 hourly to the $2.09 rate under the revised contract.

The new contract and pay rates were written to generally conform with the fluid milk plant contract won after a 1-day strike with Consolidated last August. Robert Schlieve, Local 583 business agent and chairman of the negotiating committee, said. Net result of the new contract is to bring Consolidated into line with other milk firms in this area, he added.

Under the new contract, the Teamsters have a modified union shop rather than the previous maintenance of membership, checkoff of union dues, arbitration procedure, a boost in recall and reporting pay scales and an increase from 15 to 21 days for sick leave.

Clothing Allowance

The company also boosted the pay for night work between 6 p.m. and 6 a.m. to 10 cents an hour from 8 cents, agreed to pay all workers a $24 annual laundry allowance and furnish gloves, boots and aprons for specific jobs and granted drivers a half-hour lunch period in every 6-hour shift, $1.25 meal allowance for 9-hour shifts and pay for meals and lodging for any overnight stop.

Holidays were increased to four and will go to six in the 1960 contract year. Vacation eligibility was cut from 18 years to 15 and will go to 12 in 1960, with workers having that seniority given three weeks vacation.

The company agreed to pay complete cost of the Teamster health and welfare program as of March 1.

High Bridge Name Again Under Study

Peabody, Plank, Rachow, McCarthy, Wettengel Suggested

The subject of a name for the College-Candee high level bridge was reopened Monday by the city council's street and sanitation committee.

Some committee members showed reluctance to broach the subject and after a few suggestions the matter was dropped, with Chairman Ald. Roy Pointer saying, "Well, it's something to mull over."

It was suggested the span be named after George F. Peabody, pioneer Appleton merchant who died in 1909 leaving trust funds which have benefited the city; the late J. J. Plank, member of the city water commission from 1917 to 1949 and its chairman from 1923 to 1949, and Edwin B. Rachow, who retired recently after 27 years on the park board, many of them as chairman.

There was no mention of citizen suggestions, made shortly after Sen. McCarthy's death in May, 1957, that the bridge be named after the senator. One committee member said he doesn't think it should be named after an individual.

At that time, there also was a suggestion to name the bridge after the late Fred Felix Wettengel, long-time proponent of civic improvement projects.

The $1,350,000, 1,386 - foot-long bridge is scheduled for completion in December.

Sacco-Vanzetti Case Revived

Legislator Seeks to Clear Men Executed as Slayers

Boston — Sacco and Vanzetti have been dead 31 years, but their ghosts may stalk the halls of the Massachusetts statehouse again in 1960.

Once again there may be a great debate on the question which made these two obscure Italian immigrants — one a fish peddler, the other a shoe worker — world figures in the 1920s and subjects of controversy ever since.

Were they really guilty of murdering a factory paymaster and his guard and robbery of a $15,000 payroll?

Or were they convicted by a "hard hearted New England jury" because they were aliens and draft dodgers and admitted to being "radicals"?

And what ever became of their reported accomplices?

Rep. Alexander J. Cella (D-Medford) now asks the Massachusetts legislature to pardon the two men to "correct an historic injustice."

Cella, 29, was born two years after Sacco and Vanzetti were executed Aug. 22, 1927.

Paymaster, Guard Slain

Nicola Sacco, 28, a shoe factory worker, was married, and had a son and a daughter.

He lived in Stoughton, 10 miles south of Boston.

Bartolomeo Vanzetti, 32, unmarried and a fish peddler, lived in Plymouth.

On April 15, 1920, Frederick A. Parmenter, shoe factory paymaster, walked from one plant building to another carrying the payroll. His guard was Alessandro Berardelli.

As they crossed a street in suburban South Braintree, two men who had been lounging against a fence suddenly opened fire. Berardelli fell. Parmenter was mortally wounded as he ran.

The men grabbed the payroll and escaped in a car containing two or three other men.

Three weeks later Sacco and Vanzetti were arrested on a street car. Both carried loaded revolvers.

Linked to Killings

Bullets taken from Berardelli's body were identified as similar to those in cartridges found on Sacco. The Vanzetti gun was identified by prosecution witnesses as one taken from Berardelli.

Prosecution eyewitnesses during the trial. The case was debated in the Italian parliament. There were demonstrations in Milan, and scores of other cities through the world.

The American embassy in Paris was bombed. American legations in Tokyo, in Lisbon, in Buenos Aires were threatened with bombings.

After innumerable motions for new trials, appeals to the state and federal courts, and to the Supreme Court of the United States, the conviction was upheld.

Judge Thayer's conduct of the trial was questioned. He was accused of prejudice, or making intemperate remarks away from the court — about the defendants.

Found Trial Fair.

Final appeals were made to then Gov. Alvan T. Fuller. He appointed a committee headed by President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard to study the case.

The committee ruled the trial was fair, and gave its

Impose Partial News Blackout On Game Talks

Order Newsmen Out Of Room as Voigt, Officials Speak

Stevens Point — What did L. P. Voigt, director of the Wisconsin conservation department, tell more than 130 wardens as they assembled here Monday for their 3-day conference?

What did the conservation wardens hear from Dr. Edward Schneider, superintendent of fish management, J. R. Smith, superintendent of the game management division, and Neil LeMay, chief forest ranger?

Reporters were ordered from the meeting room before the three spoke.

'Technical' Parts

Chief Warden George Hadland, in charge of the sessions, told newsmen later they could attend the "technical" parts of the meetings but he refused to relate what was said at the conferences barred to the press.

"As far as I'm concerned it's strictly a family affair," Hadland declared.

He said the wardens were attending at state expense but when asked why the proceedings should not be reported, he said, "Well, it's just one of those things."

He added that the news blackout on "family business" was consistent with department policy.

Just A Guest

Voigt, when questioned by newsmen, said, "I'm just a guest here. This is Hadland's meeting. He's responsible for how it's conducted. Go to him for your answers."

Hadland said there was nothing to hide or be ashamed of but that he felt the department had a right to conduct its business in private.

Reporters were permitted to hear a talk on court procedure by Circuit Judge Bruce Beilfuss of Neillsville.

The meetings continue through Wednesday. Hadland has specified the sessions which will be barred to the press.

own opinion the men were guilty.

As for Judge Thayer's conduct, the committee noted that despite defense charges and claims, defense lawyers filed not a single exception to the charge the judge delivered to the jury. What about the other men in the holdup car? Defense sympathizers asked. No one else was ever brought to trial.

In mid-August of 1927 Gov. Fuller refused to commute the death sentences.

On the night of Aug. 22 the statehouse was picketed. The state prison area was crowded.

Police, 800 strong, with machine guns and other weapons stood guard.

Sacco and Vanzetti were executed just after midnight.

Town of Menasha Mails Tax Bills Asking $337,800

Collections Begin Friday
From 1,700 Property Owners

Menasha — Bills seeking payment of $337,840 in taxes went out Monday to 1,689 taxpayers owning 3,140 parcels of property in the town of Menasha, Town Treasurer Ebbe Berg announced today.

Residents of the former Maplewood school district, which includes all property on the east side of Little Lake Butte des Morts, will pay at a rate of $16.29 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. Their total tax bill is $134,079 which is paid by the town to the city of Menasha for school purposes.

For those owning property in the Spring Road school district, which comprises the area of the town west of Little Lake Butte des Morts, the rate is $10.77 for school operations and $9.38 for high school tuition and transportation.

This will raise $91,051 for school operations, $72,088 for high school tuition and $6,458 for high school transportation. The high school tuition and transportation is based on equalized valuation on a county-wide basis rather than on the number of students involved.

Special Assessments
Brighton beach private road residents will pay $1 per $1,000 of valuation for a total of $159.60 for road work. The rate for the sanitary district No. 2 residents, which is the Lynch plat area, is $5 to pay a total of $2,209.50. Also from that district will come $588 in delinquent water and sewer charges.

Other revenues listed by Berg are $15.75 in occupation tax.

Board Turns Down Request For Rezoning

Denies Wilke's
Application for Commercial Area

Oshkosh — Denial of the application of Warren Wilke for rezoning from residential to commercial a parcel of property on Highway 47, just north of Menasha, was approved by the county board this morning.

The board of adjustments reported it held a hearing on rezoning requests and was recommending the Wilke request be denied and that a request of Charles Gambisky for a change from residential to industrial zoning of property in the Blair-Spring plat, off Chapman avenue and the Chicago and Northwestern railroad abandoned right-of-way, be approved.

Public Hearing
Dist. Atty. Jack Steinhilber, in an opinion to the committee suggested that a public hearing be held on the petition although the board under the law may make such boundary changes without hearings.

Supv. Warren Miracle, town of Vinland chairman, said this matter has been going on for several years. First the petitioners wanted to get into the Lakeview school district and that was granted, resulting in the construction of a larger school.

Secondly, Miracle said they petitioned to have the town reassessed, "figuring the farmer wasn't paying his fair share."

Neenah Offers To Lease Fresh Air Camp Area

Board Committee
To View Premises;
Nominal Rental

Oshkosh — The county board's fair and park committee will view the fresh air camp premises near Neenah and report at the next board meeting as to whether the county should take over the property.

A letter from Mayor Chester S. Bell of Neenah indicated the city of Neenah will lease the site along Lake Winnebago to the county at a nominal rental. The property is to be used for recreational purposes and not for just a boat launching site, the mayor indicated.

The least will terminate if the property is not put to recreational use.

The mayor indicated he thought the city and county could get together on the transfer.

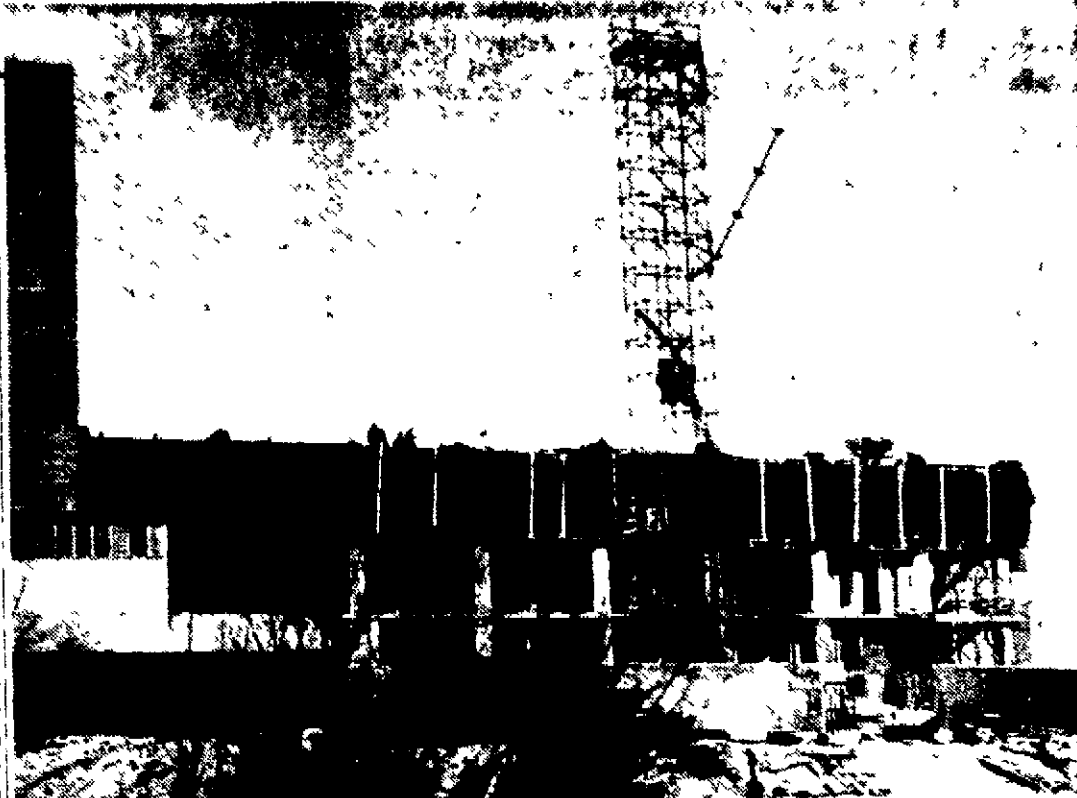

Supv. Al Becher, Menasha, said the property is 120 feet wide by 150 feet deep and has a good beach for swimming.

Norbert Redlin Seeks Reelection To County Board

Neenah — Norbert H. Redlin, 424 Tenth street, Monday took out nomination papers for reelection to the county board from the Fifth ward. He has served six years on the board and four on its finance committee. He also is a member of the county board's special study committee on the University of Wisconsin Extension center request.

A life resident of Neenah, Redlin is employed as a machine tender at the Kimberly-Clark corporation at Lakeview mill. He is a veteran of World War II. Redlin is 45 years old, married and has two children, 14 and 10 years old.

He is a former union local officer.

Construction of the new 7-story warehouse adjoining Kimberly-Clark corporation's present warehouse at Lakeview division of Neenah mill is progressing. The building permit for the 250,000 square foot building set the cost at $1.1 million. Occupancy is expected by the middle of this year.

Seek County-Wide 21-Year Minimum Age Beer Sale Law

Neenah Citizen Cites Teenage Bar
Problems in Letter to Supervisors

Oshkosh — A county-wide ordinance seeking a 21-year-old minimum age for the purchase of beer was proposed to the county board this morning in a letter from LeRoy Goldbeck of Neenah.

The city of Neenah recently adopted an ordinance prohibiting possession of beer by those under 21.

Goldbeck cited the recent murder of an Oshkosh girl, who had been in several beer bars the night of her death, and of numerous teenage fighters at beer bars as pointing to the need for such an ordinance. His request was referred to the judiciary committee.

Placed on file was a letter from Emmett W. Below, a member of the Citizens' committee on the University of Wisconsin Extension center request, expressing appreciation for $250,000 placed in the budget as the county's share for the new building. The county board authorized the public building committee to purchase microfilm equipment for the filming of records in the register of probate office. This is on an experimental basis and it is believed it will cut down on the amount of labor and eliminate the need for extra help in that office.

Other county offices were contacted and some did not feel they needed microfilming of their records.

The public building committee was instructed to survey non-county groups such as abstract companies, the Red Cross and farm agencies using court house facilities as to the rent being paid was adequate.

The special committee studying the disposition of the fair grounds reported it had several meetings, some of them with fair association committee on the University of Wisconsin Extension center request, expressing appreciation for $250,000 placed in the budget as the county's share for the new building. The county board authorized the public building com-

Gunman Takes $110 in Oshkosh Station Robbery

Oshkosh — An armed robber held up an Oshkosh filling station attendant about 8:47 p.m. Monday, taking $110.

John Kramer, 44 Oshkosh, told police that the man forced him into a washroom at gunpoint and told him to count five before coming out. He described the robber as being about 5-8, weighing 160 pounds, with ruddy complexion. He said he was wearing a blue jacket, army twill trousers and possibly a blue cap.

Kramer said the man told him he was being covered by a rifle so he may have had an accomplice waiting in a nearby car.

Fred Pfaff, owner of the station, located at 1226 Oregon street, said the man made off with $100 in bills and change. Police in Fond du Lac and Ripon are aiding Oshkosh police in their search for a man recently released from Waupun, who is wanted for questioning.

Neenah Adult School Offers Driver Course

Plan Instruction As Refresher for Licensed Motorists

Neenah — The driver refresher course for licensed drivers again will be offered for the second semester, Dan Danielson, director of the Neenah Vocational and Adult school said today. Registration will be accepted this week in person or by phone at the school office for the 5-session class which begins Monday, Jan. 12. Robert Thom is the instructor.

The state motor vehicle department feels from its experience that not only should the state make available training for the inexperienced driver, but also to make available refresher training to those already holding a driver's license, Danielson said. There is evidence that a large number of adults lack adequate education in driving.

The course is designed to bring drivers up-to-date. Its primary purpose is to illustrate faulty practices and attitudes of the average individual's driving habits.

Tests tend to show many adults are not fully informed about traffic regulations and safe practices and their attitudes generally are not satisfactory, said Thom.

The class will take up topics in an informal manner with the class having many opportunities to ask questions. Movies and illustrations will provide additional information. Also available will be physical testing equipment for drivers to test themselves as to their reaction time, glare recovery, depth perception, tunnel vision and other physical aspects.

There is no fee for the course which will include the main points of the driving laws also. Enrollment in the class is limited.

OSC Examinations

Oshkosh — Final examinations at Oshkosh State college will be held Jan. 26-30. Registration for the second semester is scheduled for Feb. 2-3 and classes will resume Feb. 4.

al beekeepers tax and $15 in occupational milk farmer tax.

The town will pay $139,297 in county tax, $8,270 in state tax and its own operation costs out of money on hand and revenues anticipated.

This is the ninth consecutive year the town has not charged any state, county or township tax.

Because part of the town is attached to the city of Menasha school district, town funds cannot be used for any school operations.

Collections will begin Friday and either Berg or Mrs. Berg, deputy treasurer, will be at the First National bank in Neenah to receive payments from 1 to 3 p.m. and 6 to 8 p.m. on Fridays during January and February.

Persons may pay their taxes by mail by addressing them to him at Page's point, Menasha. Tax payments should not be brought to his house in person.

Those wishing to use the installment plan are to pay all of their personal property and half of their real estate taxes to Berg and the remaining half to the county treasurer by July 31. The deadline for tax payments in full is Feb. 28.

Dog Licenses

Dog licenses also may be purchased at this time at a fee of $1 for males and spayed females and $2 for females. Dog license applications have been mailed to 365 dog owners reported to the treasury by the assessor. The law states that anyone not purchasing a license for a dog he owns is to be reported to the district attorney.

Owners of property in the town of Menasha who do not receive their tax bills soon should contact him, Berg said.

Twin City Post Offices Begin Safety Plan

Menasha — A post office department campaign to "Protect Your Spine in '59" is being conducted in the Twin Cities. Postmasters John Backes, Menasha, and George Rasmussen, Neenah, announced today. The program was established to cut down on postal workers' accidents.

Winter months are a critical period and citizens are urged to cooperate by reducing hazards on their property. Special precautions also are being taken within the post office, the postmasters stated.

The program includes motor vehicle safety and postal drivers have been asked to gauge their speed according to conditions and to back their vehicles only when necessary.

In Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota, postal workers during the last six months, lost as many days as any one person would ordinarily work in 15 years. Most of these accidents resulted from slips and falls off postal property.

The second most important cause of lost time accidents is lifting. The post offices are taking steps to prevent overloading of sacks and large publishers and mailers are being requested to cooperate in this respect.

The postmasters reminded that the same factors which could cause a letter carrier to fall on your premises also can cause you to fall.

Pool Passes To Cost Same

Menasha — Season swimming pool passes will cost the same next summer as they did in 1958, the recreation board decided Monday night. Passes will cost $5 for adults, $3 for high school age students and $2 for children.

The committee recommended to the council that Commissioners Edward Gavinski, Cyril Reuter and Floyd Fenske, whose terms expire in 1959, be reappointed.

The board will ask the National Recreation Association to give a citation to Commissioner Mrs. George Pratt.

Recreation director Robert Vanevenhoven was instructed to make an announcement of positions available on the summer recreation staff. Vanevenhoven also reported on changes being made in the pool's filtering system.

share," and as a result of the reassessment some of the petitioners ended up paying higher taxes.

Thirdly, they claimed they don't have a fire department whereas we have one of the best township fire departments, Miracle declared, and he listed what protection was available.

The Vinland town chairman said they knew what it was when they bought the property there and he thought they were trying to get lower taxes by attaching to the town of Neenah.

Another recommendation to come from the judiciary committee concerns the return of driver license examinations from the state to the city and county police departments. Several supervisors have complained that removal of this examination took away one of the best public relation facilities local police had, and they were critical about the state driver's license examination procedures.

Population Doubles

Recreation Director Tells Need For Additional Neenah Park Area

Neenah — While Neenah's population has almost doubled in the last 10 years and over 880 acres of land have been annexed, very little has been done for park purposes, Recreation Director William Miller told the Neenah club Monday noon.

Miller pointed out the first park acquired was the Green park in 1943, which was set aside as the village green by the local settlers. The last acquisition was the Second Ward park in 1949, which was to have been used as a site for a city garage but was given to the park and recreation department for a playground. In between those years, 10 other park areas were added, five through gifts.

Basic Factors

Three basic factors have combined to produce the current need for additional park and playground area, the speaker declared. They are growth in population, growth in area and growth in leisure time.

The recreation director explained the standard used by park people is one acre of park and recreation space for every 100 persons in a community. He said the precepts of planning are that the playground areas should be well distributed — available in every neighborhood within a quarter to half mile of every home and they should preserve areas of natural beauty and interest.

Since 1951, Neenah has acquired 883 acres through annexation and the land set aside for playground space amounts to only about six acres, the speaker went on.

1929 Plan

Neenah didn't lack long-range planning, Miller added since as early as 1929 a very comprehensive plan was made for park and recreation areas. "Some of the recommendations were followed, such as the acquisition of the Island park area, Washington park and Cook park, but most of the proposals were neglected," he said. "Had the entire plan been followed, Neenah would be in rather good shape today."

The speaker also discussed the "master plan of the Twin Cities," authorized in 1949 by the Wisconsin state planning board, which he said was given wide publicity. "Some progress has been made but mainly in the form of buildings — Riverside park pavilion and Second Ward and Cook shelters — but the really critical need for additional park space and good distribution of the space has been completely disregarded, he continued.

Laudan Area

Miller declared the commission recommended the acquisition of property immediately east of Wilson school and south of the Laudan playground but it wasn't purchased with the result that a very vital playground with the largest summer attendance, situated closest to the fastest growing residential area in Neenah is already too small and has no chance for expansion.

Turning to Hoover and Taft school playgrounds, Miller said that the combined areas represent about six acres of usable playground space. "One of the major problems is already upon us," he told, "when the number of youngsters in a neighborhood increases, the need for larger play areas increases, too, and the need for a larger school also occurs — additions are built and the park areas shrink."

Edgewood Plat

"We have ascribed to the real value and economy of joint park and school development, without really adequate joint planning and almost disastrous results," he said. "The latest defeat of planning occurred just last month when a budget request by the park and recreation commission for $40,000 for the purchase of additional park land was denied in the interest of keeping the tax rate down."

Junior High School

"Surely no one can question the honest desire for economy but where is the saving when today we could purchase at acreage prices and get suitable locations and tomorrow — after the area is developed — we have to pay lot prices and take whatever site a developer consents to."

Miller added that right now the city has the problem of building a new junior high school. "Why not provide sufficient land at whatever site is chosen to provide for the school's needs and for a neighborhood park and play area — the two separate needs can be provided for in one well-planned site," the recreation director explained. "Should a site south of Cecil street be decided on, here is, what may be the last chance to correct a flaw in our distribution of recreation space."

"The advent of regional trussing, without realizing that the standards of area for schools do not necessarily satisfy the park and recreation needs for that neighborhood," Miller continued.

He said that with this in mind, with the cooperation of the board of education, the park and recreation commission attempted to correct the situation when the Edgewood plat was developed and land for a park-school site was being purchased.

He said the land purchased was about seven acres and the commission requested the acquisition of approximately three additional acres but the requests have been turned down.

"The latest defeat of planning occurred just last month when a budget request by the park and recreation commission for $40,000 for the purchase of additional park land was denied in the interest of keeping the tax rate down."

Preparing a Buffet Luncheon was included in the training session on "Buffet Magic" for Winchester Center Homemakers Monday afternoon. Mrs. Roy Anderson, Clayton club, brings the casserole main dish to the table while Mrs. Ray-Bartell, Wolf River club, lights the candles in the upper picture. Adding the dressing to a molded salad, prepared in advance, in the lower picture is Mrs. Leonard Larson, Winchester club, while Mrs. Richard Johnson, Friendly Neighbors club, holds the tray.

County Homemakers Discuss How to Entertain With Flair

Winchester — Entertaining with a flair, giving individuality to company meals with a freshness of view and a daring to do something in an unusual and interesting manner rather than the ordinary way is being discussed and demonstrated by Winnebago county homemakers this month in a lesson, "Buffet Magic."

The first in the series of leader training meetings was held Monday at Grace Lutheran church with Winchester leaders preparing a buffet luncheon and discussing the meaning of hospitality.

Homemakers pointed out a home that maintains a spirit of hospitality and restful atmosphere, where well planned meals are simply and attractively served every day will have fewer awkward moments when company comes. It is embarrassing to guests when there are profuse apologies or parents use the meal hour to teach good manners to children.

Suggestions for successful entertaining included inviting of guests who are congenial and enjoy each other because of interests or experiences. Keep away from too set of details well in advance of entertaining, and planning a simple menu, one with few last minute preparations so the hostess can be with the guests most of the time.

One Main Dish Don't try to display all your culinary skill and art in one meal. One elaborate dish, whether it is the main dish, salad or dessert, can highlight the meal with the menu planned around this dish.

Keep on hand certain party foods such as olives, relishes, assorted crackers, nuts and cheeses, that help dress-up a menu or garnish a dish. Shop to see what interesting food specialties are available. Miss Lois Klumeyer, county home agent, who conducted the training session, advised making a plan of work to relieve mental strain and wear.

Take stock of your house and equipment to decide the type of entertaining and service you can easily do in your home and family situation. There are many flexible, expandable and storable pieces of furniture that simplify the problem of adequate table space.

With some imagination, the hostess can serve a simple meal with flair, one that guests will enjoy and remember. With attractive table-flat glass, china or wooden ware, linens, simple flower arrangement and perhaps candle or candlelight, an atmosphere can be created that promotes a congenial mood for all present.

Candlelight If candles are used, use enough to give light for eating supplemented by a lamp or two as needed. The flame should not be in a direct line with the eyes since flickering candlelight is bothersome.

To make the food service more attractive and interesting, visualize how the food will look on the plate. Have contrast in color, texture, flavor and temperature. Avoid casual dumping of meats and vegetables on a platter or other serving dish.

Keep away from too set of facts, not alternating food too much or decorating too much. Change the way you cut vegetables and fruits. The home agent pointed out car-vegetables can be left whole if small, but if cut, vary their appearance by sometimes cutting them in round or diagonal

'Mechta' Latest Tag Placed on Soviet Rocket

Moscow — The Soviet scientific writer Alexander Kazantsev today gave the name "Mechta" (dream) to Russia's cosmic rocket.

Moscovites, in their first enthusiasm over the rocket, began calling it Lunik—a combination of sputnik and luna for moon—last Saturday when it was assumed from official announcements that it was aimed at the vicinity of the moon.

The rocket, however, soared far beyond the moon, and the Russians now say it will become an artificial planet in orbit about the sun.

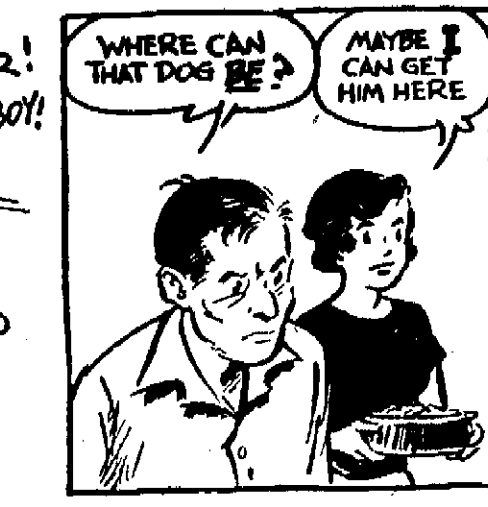

Kazantsev, writing in the official party newspaper Pravda, listed other planets and said:

"Now the small planet Mechta has joined this family... who knows but sometime in the next millennium a starship from the communist earth will go up to celebrate this anniversary of the conquest of the universe, will approach the orbit of Mechta closely and the filers of the future will raise their helmets to greet the first space envoy from the land of socialism."

Often misspelled: Elasticity, "city." Curiosity, "sity." Synonyms: Laughable, ludicrous, ridiculous, comical, comical, farcical, risible, droll, funny.

Coconut Craft Popular With Puerto Rican Boys and Girls

BY CAPPY DICK

The next time your mother buys a coconut, try your hand at coconut craft, a hobby that is popular with the boys and girls of Puerto Rico.

The hard shell of the nut can be filed until it is smooth and then can be polished with floor wax. Many things can be made from pieces of shell, but one of the simplest is a pin tray inside of which you can engrave palm trees on or the point of a nut pick. A completed tray appears in Figure 4. It would be a fine gift for your mother to have for her dresser.

The coconut should be opened as carefully as possible. First drive a nail into the holes at the monkey-face end of the nut. Shake the water out. Then use a saw to cut the coconut in half at the point indicated by the dotted line in Figure 1. If you have no saw, you can break the coconut in half with a sharp chisel and a hammer, pounding until you have it cracked all the way around.

After removing the meat from inside, use the chisel or a nail or nutpick to scratch saw to cut one of the halves into about five sections as in Figure 3. The design will Figure 2. Each section will appear in dark brown lines, make a pin tray. File the out-After polishing the shell with smooth. At the center, file for use.

Your Money's Worth

Business Boom Will Boost Loan Costs

BY SYLVIA PORTER

If business continues its current strong comeback in the months ahead, credit will tighten, interest rates will climb.

To you, as borrower, this will mean it will be harder to get a loan to expand your business, to buy a home, to carry on other activities, and you'll pay high rates for the loans you do get.

To you, as a saver, this will mean you'll get a fatter return on cash you have available for investment in new bonds and in mortgages.

Only if business goes into another slide is it likely that credit again will become easy and interest rates again will slide.

You have been put clearly on notice that this is the outlook by no less a power than the federal reserve system itself—the central bank of the United States which regulates the supply of money in our country and which is a key force in determining the level of all borrowing rates.

Rates Higher
Already many loan rates are at the highest levels in far more than a quarter-century. Already home builders are worrying that a shortage of mortgage money in 1959 may cripple building of homes this year.

For even when the revival from the 1957-58 recession was in its infancy this past summer and fall, the federal reserve system began to clamp down on credit—started to "mop up" free funds in the nation's banks so money wouldn't be so easy and the banks wouldn't be so eager to extend speculative, potentially inflationary loans.

Right now, in these first days of January, the system is actively pursuing its "mop up" policy to make sure that the banks don't get loaded with extra cash which they'll rush to put to use.

As the federal reserve has reduced the availability of credit in recent months, the price of that credit—the level of interest rates—has risen spectacularly.

The mighty U.S. treasury must pay over 4 per cent interest to get a modest long-term loan today. As recently as this past June it was paying 3 1/2 per cent for a long-term loan, and buyers were scrambling for the bonds.

The top-notch corporation borrowers of the nation can still get loans at the prime rate of 4 per cent, but terms of the loans, in effect, raise the rate closer to 5 per cent.

As recently as six months ago top-notch corporations were getting loans at little more than 3 1/2 per cent.

As for mortgage money, if you're a superb risk and want only a small mortgage you might get one at 5 1/2 per cent.

It's more probable that you'll pay 5 1/2 to 6 per cent—the precise charge depending on the community in which you live, and your banking connections.

Why is better business in 1959 due to bring tighter credit, higher interest rates? Because the federal reserve fears that inflation will damage the business recovery, and it is determined to use its powers to the utmost to help maintain the value of the dollar.

Cannot Control
It cannot directly control the federal budget deficit. It cannot directly restrain the advance in wages or in prices of goods and services. It cannot directly curb installment buying. But it has authority to restrict the use of credit in the stock market and this it has done by raising the requirement for buying listed stocks on margin (credit) to 80 per cent. It has authority to restrict the general supply of bank credit and to make borrowing from banks more costly. This, too, it has done.

If business does continue rebounding this year there'll be a greater demand for bank funds—but the federal reserve will not expand the supply to equal the demand. And as the greater demand for money will hit the limited supply, natural economic forces will tend to raise the cost of borrowing.

If you expect business to improve this year—a logical expectation—and if you know you're going to need money as 1959 rolls on, the message of this report is blunt: Arrange for your loan before it becomes tougher to get and the cost of it becomes more expensive.

Kaukauna—Two persons took the opportunity to pay personal property taxes and 115 paid real estate taxes on the last day of 1958 thus qualifying this payment for income tax deductions in 1959, according to Miss Ruth Wolf, city treasurer.

The payment on Dec. 31 showed 18 less paying than did on the final day of 1957 and collections were $4,756 less than was paid on that date. The first regular day of payment in 1958 showed 142 persons paying taxes amounting to $12,599 or about $10,144 less than was paid this year. ## Six Lectures On Landscaping Planned at KVS

Laurence G. Holmes To Illustrate Talks With Colored Slides

Kaukauna—A series of six lectures, illustrated with colored slides, on landscaping will begin Jan. 20 at the Kaukauna Vocational school, according to Dominic Bordini, director.

The sessions will be held on consecutive Tuesdays from 7 to 9 p.m. with Laurence G. Holmes, instructor. Holmes graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1925, operated his own landscape construction business and nursery until 1933 when he joined the staff of the Horticultural department of the university as landscape extension specialist.

In 1941 Holmes gave up university work to return to private landscaping work and lecture programs. This will be the third year of courses at Kaukauna. The clinics are a series of illustrated lectures developed especially for new home owners and amateur gardeners.

Topics Covered
Lectures are practical, down to earth and given in terms readily understandable, according to the director. Questions and sketches of landscaping problems are encouraged throughout the series. Major topics to be covered include general design plans and problems, trees, landscape use and care, ornamental evergreens, useful native and hardy shrubs, flowers and flower borders and roses for every garden.

Enrollments can be made by calling the school office. A slight fee will be charged and attendance will be based on a first come basis.

Famous Race Driver to Address KHS Students

Tony Bettenhausen Will Talk on Safety Wednesday

Kaukauna—An educational highway safety program which has been presented to over a million students in 1,400 high schools throughout the country will be brought to Kaukauna High school students at 1 p.m. Wednesday by Tony Bettenhausen, a famed Indianapolis Speedway race driver.

Bettenhausen, 12-time contestant at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, will conduct the lecture demonstration. He is one of a team of seven famed race drivers currently visiting schools throughout the nation. His visit to Kaukauna is sponsored by Kramer Ridge company, Appleton.

Speaker's Background
The guest speaker won the 1951 and 1958 National Driving championships and also set a track record of 178 miles an hour at the 500 mile race at Monza, Italy. The 20-year veteran of racing began his Indianapolis Speedway career in 1946 and since has driven more miles in "500" competition than any other driver.

He finished fifteenth at Indianapolis in 1957 and was a fourth place finisher in the "500" mile classic in 1958. His fourth place finish earned him membership in the famed "Champion 100 Mile-An-Hour" club, reserved for drivers who have driven the entire 500 miles at the Speedway, with-out relief, at a speed of more than 100 miles an hour.

Won Award
The National Safety Council public interest award for exceptional service to safety was recently presented to the Champion Spark Plug company, Toledo, Ohio, for developing and maintaining this highway safety program in public schools.

It was the subject of an editorial in the Saturday Evening Post. Educational, civic and law enforcement officials who have observed the impact of the safety lectures and films upon assembled students have given it unqualified written endorsement, citing the program for its objecting, constructive and wholly non-commercial approach.

Bettenhausen will spend time at the school after his lecture to answer questions or merely discuss safety with students and representatives of the high school teen safety council.

To Your Good Health

Dr. Molner Disagrees With Man on Today's Medical Care

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

One of my readers wants to argue with me. And, bless his heart, that's his privilege. I may not be right all the time. I try to be, but I'm sure that none of us can.

A n y w a y, here's what he says:

"In reference to your Dr. Molner recent article, I beg to differ with you regarding being frank and honest with your doctor about your financial condition.

"I grant you that jobless can get medical aid by going to an institution of charity. But what about the people who are working and whose income does not allow huge medical expenses?

"I am speaking of people with a chronic disease who need constant medical attention. Many doctors ask an exorbitant fee for necessary treatment and you can either take it or leave it, and where you get it is your problem.

"When a person's condition is serious enough that their life could be at stake this shows how unimportant we are to a doctor. It is a well-known fact that the poverty-stricken and the wealthy get the best of medical attention but what about the decent and respectable lower income middle class? We dare not ask for charity as we would only be refused. Must such people die for lack of medical attention which is too expensive?"—T. G.

To my way of thinking, this is an important health topic. Maybe you have some idea how many people are saying what T.G. says. But having a lot of people say something doesn't necessarily make it correct. So I question T.G.'s facts.

Clever But Untrue

This adage about the very poor and the very rich getting the best medical care is a bromide that isn't true. It's a clever remark, but I think the truth is merely this: The very poor and the very rich are the only ones who never have to worry about the cost of care!

I believe, and I believe it on the basis of long observation, that the in-between people get just as good care.

Ask yourself this question: If penniless patients, like the rich, get the best care, why is it so? You can't argue that doctors do their best for the rich, and do their best for the charity patients, yet do less than their best for the in-between folk. It doesn't make sense.

For people with difficult chronic diseases that need constant care—well, they (and society) do have an economic problem which we have not yet fully solved. Let's concede that we must use both our hearts and our brains to evolve a sound solution.

But let's not clutter our minds with clever sayings that aren't very true. Let's not talk about people "dying for lack of medical attention which is too expensive" unless we can cite some actual cases. It's easy to be alarmed about such terrible things, but it is not so easy to prove that they happen. For, to tell the truth, I don't think they do happen very often.

Finally let's give my original suggestion a whirl. It was simply this: If you are really in trouble meeting medical bills, tell your doctor frankly what the situation is. He's no mind-reader. Tell him the facts. You'll work something out together.

Don't let T.G.'s letter, above, bother you too much. I printed it because I think he is sincere, but I also think he's mostly wrong, mostly imagining evil that doesn't happen. Or doesn't very often.

No Harm
Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any harm or danger in swallowing chewing gum?—M.H.

—No. After observing some gum-chewers, I think that the best thing for them to do with it.

Dismantle Old Building on College Avenue

Ideal Photo Will Build Where Dry Cleaners Once Stood

Razing work began Monday on the building at 222 E. College avenue. It formerly housed Modern Dry Cleaners and a postal substation and probably is one of the oldest buildings on College avenue.

The old structure was purchased by Robert Weyenberg, owner of Ideal Photo, 208 E. College avenue. After dismantling of the building, Ideal Photo will construct a new building for its operations.

Modern Dry Cleaners has gone out of business. The substation was moved Monday night to its new location in the Ideal Photo shop. It is managed by Mrs. Arlene Riehl.

In 1846 the site was transferred from the government to Amos Lawrence, founder of Lawrence college, for $50. A building was used as a residence and there was a barn at the rear of the lot. In 1865 the lot was resold for $472, and in 1875 was sold again for $5,000 indicating a building increased the value of the property.

The photo shop plans to raze the structure and erect a 2-story plus basement building on the site. Construction is expected to begin Jan. 15 and the new building probably will be completed three months later.

The building will be 22 feet by 120 feet and the first floor will be used for camera, photographic and greeting card sales area. The basement will be utilized for storage at first, but can be converted to a sales area when necessary.

The second floor will be used for rental office space. Native field stone and local brick will be used for the interior and exterior. The entrance will be of ceramic tile and will feature a small fountain.

Expect Rise in Appliance Sales

Greater Volume in Last Half of '58 Promises New High

Total sales in the electrical appliance-radio-TV industry were down by 7.5 per cent in 1958 from the preceding year, with volume shrinking from $8 billion to $7.4 billion, according to nation-wide totals released by Electrical Merchandising magazine.

Despite the loss, however, 1958 rung up the fourth largest total in the industry's history.

Even though 1958 recorded a decline, the magazine editors point out that the second half of the year saw a major resurgence which holds promise for a strong comeback in 1959. Preliminary forecasts are for a complete recovery in the coming year, with dollar volume matching the $8 billion of 1957.

Despite the general decline in the industry's dollar volume in 1958, many major appliances still ran up impressive unit sales. Refrigerators, for instance, sold 3,000,000 units, off only 9 per cent from the previous year. Washing machines sold a total of 2,744,000 units, off only 2.5 per cent from 1957.

The new washer-dryer combinations sold 164,000 units, for a loss of 8.5 per cent from the previous year. Standard electric ranges sold 800,000 for a decline of 14.9 per cent. Television sets were preliminarily estimated at 5,300,000 sets, or a decline of 17.2 per cent. Clothes dryers sold 1,211,000 units, down 6.4 per cent from the previous year and room air conditioners were pegged at 1,550,000 off only 2.3 per cent.

Some New Records There were isolated bright spots, even in 1958 general decline: Built-in electric ranges, with sales of 535,000 units at a retail value of $150,870,000 set a new record. Food waste disposers sold 620,000 units, floor polishers 725,000 and power mowers with 3,452,000 all recorded all-time highs. In addition, freezers with 1,100,000 unit sales and dishwashers with 400,000 both tied previous records.

Among smaller appliances, only four recorded new highs in volume. These were bed coverings, knife sharpeners, fan-forced heaters and wall and baseboard type heaters.

Mother Pleads For Return of Kidnaped Baby

New York — The mother of a kidnaped infant girl pleaded for the safe return of the baby today and offered to share the child with the abductor.

The kidnaper is believed to be a frustrated mother.

"If she loves the baby that much and would return her to us I would even be willing to let her visit the baby periodically," said Mrs. Frances Chionchio, 26, from her hospital bed.

Police still held hope the baby, stolen from a hospital nursery Friday night, may still be alive despite a foreboding note found pinned to a diaper in a Coney Island subway station.

They learned that the diaper did not come from the hospital where the baby was born, indicating the note might not have been written by the kidnaper. On the other hand, the kidnaper could have obtained diapers elsewhere than at the hospital.

The unsigned note, found yesterday in the women's room of the station, read:

"Please return to St. Peter's hospital. Didn't want to hurt anyone. Everything is so hard. Tired. Sick. The ocean is so inviting. Maybe now I will find peace. I tried to keep her warm. Dear God forgive me."

Police were aware the note might be the work of a crank, but hoped it might provide some lead to the baby's whereabouts.

Theodore Missing Becomes Candidate For Alderman Post

Theodore O. Missing, 66, 817 W. Summer street, today became the third announced candidate for Third ward alderman in the April 7 city election.

A retired cabinet shop owner, he is making his second try for office having lost a bid for county board supervisor about 15 years ago.

Eugene E. LeFevre, 54, 708 N. State street, has filed completed nomination papers for the post. Kenneth J. Loos, 35, 808 W. Winnebago street, like Missing, is circulating papers.

The Third ward post is held by Harvey Priebe, Sr., who now resides in the town of Grand Chute.

Fox Cities Drivers Forfeit Bonds, Pay Fines in Waupaca

Waupaca — Among motorists facing traffic infraction charges before Justice of the Peace George Whalen were William H. Wagner, 54, 1618 Perkins st., Appleton, who forfeited $30.50 by not answering a charge of traveling too fast for conditions; Ralph D. Forbes, 21, Oshkosh, fined $10 for failing to yield to oncoming traffic; and Peter M. Law-

Prison for Thief

'Won't Let Streets be Unsafe,' Judge Says

One of three young men who admitted being involved in an Appleton purse-snatching Thursday was sent to prison for a 1-to 2-year sentence today by Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmieg.

Commenting that "this court will not permit the streets of Appleton to become unsafe to walk upon," Judge Schmieg sent Robert O. Robbins, 25, 816 1/2 Roosevelt street, Menasha, to Waupun. Robbins' accomplice, Robert Schussman, 18, 429 1/2 Broad street, Menasha, also admitted the offense and was ordered held in the county jail for a 2-week pre-sentence investigation.

A 16-year-old youth, who did the actual snatching of the purse, has been turned over to Winnebago county authorities for action.

Police said Robbins waited in a car nearby while Schussman and the 16-year-old walked up to two girls in the 900 block of N. Richmond street. After taking the purse, the youths fled to the waiting car. The purse was taken from Sarah McKenzie, 931 W. Lorain street, who was walking with Joan Learman, 800 N. Mason street.

After taking the purse, the 16-year-old gave Schussman 25 cents, kept 25 cents and gave $9 to Robbins, police said.

Robbins has a juvenile record in Neenah, including a beating, and convictions for burglary and car theft in Menasha. He was released from Green Bay reformatory about three years ago on the car theft charge, police said.

Robbins and Schussman were charged with theft.

Crashes Lead To Charges for Two Motorists

One Loses Right to Drive for 30 Days, Other Fined $50

Two drivers today were charged with driving too fast for conditions and causing accidents.

Elmer L. Steffens, 21, 319 S. Badger avenue, was fined $50 and his driver's license revoked for 30 days by Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmieg. Revocation was stayed on condition Steffens is not arrested for a moving traffic violation for the next year. A charge of no registration was dismissed upon payment of $2.95 court costs.

Steffens was charged after his car skidded in the 1700 block of S. Memorial drive about 5:30 a.m. Thursday, hit a tree and bounced back from the center boulevard into the opposite lane of traffic. The offense will cost Steffens three points, the accident three more.

Lorenz H. Starfeldt, Jr., 17, 1015 W. Spencer street, was ordered to pay $3.95 court costs and his driver's license was revoked for six months. Revocation was stayed on condition Starfeldt is not arrested for a moving traffic violation during the next year.

Skidded 180 Feet

Starfeldt was charged after his car skidded 180 feet on the left side of Highway 96, banged off the curb and traveled about 50 feet to break off a sign at Highway 96 and Ballard road about 10 p.m. Dec. 30.

Roy W. Rusch, 37, 1821 E. Melrose avenue, was fined $50 and his driver's license was revoked for 60 days for hit and run. Revocation was stayed on condition Rusch is not arrested for a moving traffic violation for a year. The offense will cost him six points.

Rusch was charged after police investigated reports of a car's passage over a lawn where it broke down a tree, in the 1400 block of E. Glendale avenue Dec. 30.

Right-of-Way

Anthony A. Griesbach, 45, 829 Seventh street, Menasha, was fined $15 and charged three points for failing to yield the right-of-way. He was charged after his car became involved in a collision with one in a funeral procession at College avenue and Walnut street Saturday.

Mary L. Pfister, 16, 830 S. Kernan avenue, was ordered to pay $2.95 court costs and her driver's license was revoked for 30 days on a charge of failing to yield the right-of-way. She was charged after an accident at E. South River and S. Lawe streets.

Charged with driving without a license were Denny M. ler, 19, 409 Appleton street, Menasha, who forfeited $15.50 for failing to stop for an arterial.

Court Denies Appeal of Home Mutual

An appeal to the state supreme court by Home Mutual Insurance company has been denied and the court ruled an injured person may collect medical payments under an insurance policy even though his costs were covered by Blue Cross.

Herman Kopp, Eau Claire, injured in an automobile accident July 6, 1957, tried to collect his $500 in medical payments under a policy issued by Home Mutual. The company paid him $180 for a doctor bill but refused to pay any more on the premise that a $387 bill at Luther hospital, Eau Claire, had been paid by Blue Cross.

County Judge Merrill R. Farr ruled that Kopp was entitled to the full $500 medical payment from Home Mutual. The fact that Farr had insured himself separately through a Blue Cross policy did not affect Home Mutual's liability under its policy, Farr ruled.

Home Mutual then appealed to the state supreme court, contending Kopp was not entitled to recover any more than the $180 doctor bill because there were no other medical costs incurred by him.

The supreme court said the insurance company was trying to deny payment on the narrow grounds that Kopp had never incurred hospital expense. The court said Blue Cross coverage cost money as did any other insurance and that it would be absurd to say Kopp could recover from one insurance firm and not another.

Nieft, 17, 725 Fifth street, Menasha, 30-day revocation and $2.95 court costs, and James H. Kranzusch, 32, 1701 S. Madison avenue, $5 fine.

The Rev. Lloyd Goetz, Ne-koosa, president of the North Wisconsin district of the Lutheran Church — Missouri Synod will be guest speaker at Faith Lutheran church Sunday when the congregation meets in special services to dedicate the new dual-purpose addition to its church building.

The Rev. Mr. Goetz will preach at morning services, at 8 a.m. and 10:30 a.m.

An afternoon service has been scheduled for 2:30 p.m. The Rev. Harold Parsch, of St. James Lutheran church, Shawano, will be preacher. He is chairman of the board for Christian education of the district.

The dedicatory services mark formal opening of the second unit in the parish building plan. The present church, built as the first unit, was dedicated in January, 1951.

Tenth Anniversary
The parish also will observe the tenth anniversary of the founding of the congregation. Four Appleton families founded the parish early in 1949. Three of them—the Fred Froehlichs, the T. J. Hartmans, and the Otto Rentners—still are members of the congregation. The fourth, the Lester Hantzenbergs, have moved from Appleton.

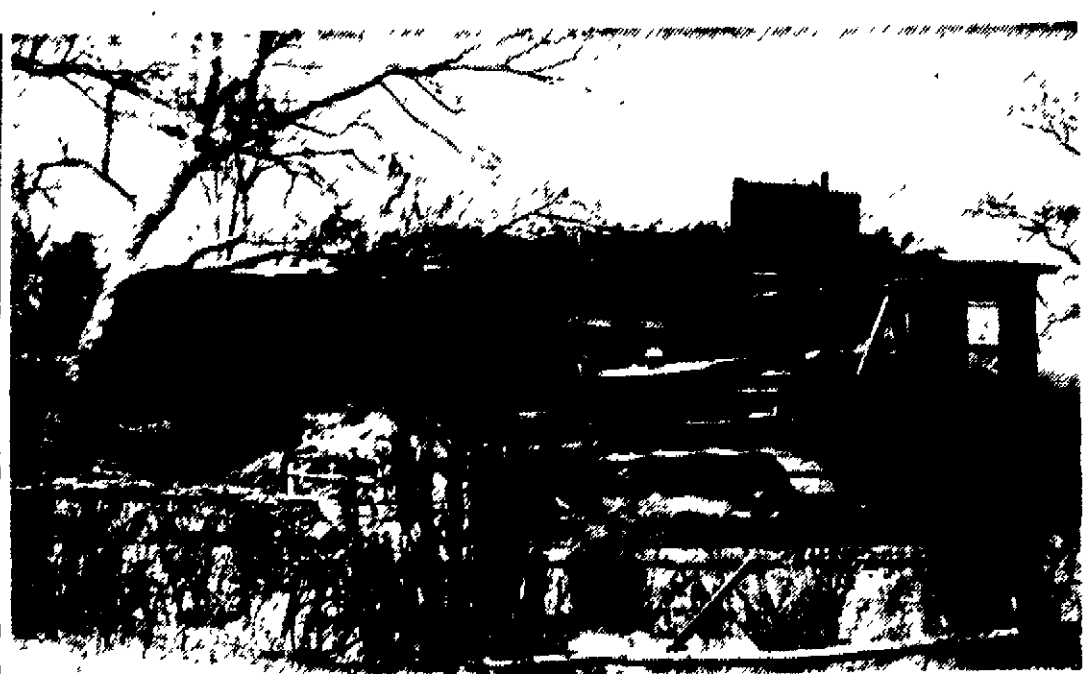

The congregation's first service was conducted Feb. 13, 1949, by the late Rev. R. D. Tornow in what was then the American Legion hall at 800 N. Superior street. Services were held there until Christmas of 1950, when the congregation began to meet in its own church at Alice and Union streets.

Parish House
When continued growth required more facilities, the parish bought a home at 615 E. Glendale avenue on property adjoining the church to the north. This property was converted into a parish house, and used for meeting of the congregation until progress on the new completed church addition made it possible to shift these activities to the new building.

The congregation also enlarged and remodeled the Glendale avenue home for use as a parsonage. It became the home of the Rev. H. E. Simon and his family on Dec. 16. The Rev. Mr. Simon came to the congregation as its first permanent pastor in September, 1940.

Mann Leads Tour in Schools of Future

Parents Hear About Probable Changes in Curriculum, Greater Emphasis on Work

Members of the city-wide PTA council took a tour through Appleton public schools of the future Monday night under guidance of Supt. of Schools John P. Mann.

About 35 parents and teachers who met in the Franklin school library were led through what might be aspects of the curriculum of the future and heard about new buildings school officials feel are needed.

In years to come, Mann predicted, elementary and secondary schools might be teaching an eastern language such as Russian or Chinese, along with foreign languages now offered.

"If we want to maintain the American way, we'll have to understand the languages of others," he contended. "It will be particularly important that we understand some of the eastern languages."

Communication Arts
He also foresaw more emphasis on communication, courses in statistics, more emphasis on drawing in industrial arts, and a high school auto mechanics course using new and modern equipment, as well as more courses in political science and anthropology.

Schools libraries, "the hub of the educational universe," will be developed more, the superintendent forecast, and there will be a trend toward a greater emphasis on work. The summer school program will be expanded, he went on, and home economics courses will encompass family living as well as cooking and sewing.

Mann saw an increase in demands for services to the child and predicted a child welfare service department would be created in which all health and welfare services would be coordinated.

Masters Degrees
Mann predicted the 6-week contract for teachers would be extended and longer periods of work would be demanded. And most of the teachers in schools of the future would have a master's degree at the minimum, he said.

"Teachers now, in order to get licensed by the state, need 18 hours of strictly education courses for a bachelor's degree. This is not to say the education courses are worthless, but teachers should know more about the content of areas of learning than they can get with a bachelor's degree and a license."

He also stated studies have shown higher requirements for teachers don't harm the supply but rather seem to encourage more applications from better qualified people.

New Edison School
New on the building scene, besides schools already predicted, would be an 18-room Edison school. Mann said he'd like to have the building constructed between E. North and E. Eldorado streets.

He cautioned parents the future also will bring an increasing resistance on the part of the public to build schools because of difficulties in obtaining money. Hand in hand with increasing resistance would be a rise in the cost of buildings, he predicted.

"It may take more than five years to get what we need in five years," the superintendent stated, "but after that the building demands won't be as high."

Rescinds Charges Against Group Of Yugoslavians

Belgrade, Yugoslavia—The state prosecutor has withdrawn charges of anti-state activity against a group of pro-Soviet Yugoslav communists indicted last month.

The action apparently was taken to avoid the impression that Yugoslavia, now at odds with the Soviet bloc, is persecuting pro-Soviet elements.

The group of 25, known for their sympathies for the Soviet Union, were arrested last June and had been expected to go on trial this month. The charges were punishable with prison terms of at least five years.

Reliable sources said that the major part of the group instead had been confined for up to two years, a penalty
